Nikita May Use
Gimmick to Offset
Visit by Kennedy

BERLIN (AP)—There is speculation that Premier Khrushchev may bring Soviet spacewoman Valentina Tereshkova to East Berlin Friday in an attempt to offset President Kennedy's triumphant visit to West Berlin.

Observers said the Soviet leader will have to do something spectacular to whip up enthusiasm among the East Berliners.

There has been speculation that Khrushchev might reveal a new Soviet policy on German problems. But the general feeling is that he is too busy disputing with the Red Chinese to take on the West for a new period of acute tension.

There is little chance, however, that even the 26-year-old spacewoman could bring out the crowds or arouse the enthusiasm that greeted Kennedy in West Berlin Wednesday.

No Comparison

Gerhard Goetting, an East German Communist party official, said during a round-table discussion with East Berlin newsmen that "The visits of Khrushchev and Kennedy cannot be compared."

Khrushchev, said Goetting, was coming to support East Germany's policy of peace as well as to honor East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht, who will be 70 Sunday.

Kennedy did nothing but "aid the West German militarists who want to start another war." He never said a single word in West Berlin about the necessity of keeping peace in the world," Goetting said.

Khrushchev is scheduled to land at Schoenefeld Airport, on the outskirts of the city's Soviet sector, and drive in a motorcade to the East Berlin city hall, the East German news agency ADN reported.

The forum for Wirtz' announcement was a meeting of a House judiciary subcommittee where he testified in support of President Kennedy's civil rights package.

Of the quest for improving the lot of the American Negro, Wirtz said in his prepared testimony: "There has been no more important issue before the country and the Congress—save only the issue of war and peace."

Follows Kennedy

Wirtz followed Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who urged passage of the program Wednesday. Republican members made clear that the GOP price tag for helping the Democratic administration get the bill through Congress is a strong hand in writing the legislation.

They showed the administration can count on GOP support only if it is willing to compromise on its sweeping seven-point program.

In advance of Wirtz' testimony, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., made known that he intends to offer an amendment to deny National Labor Relations Board and other benefits to unions that practice discrimination.

"I am not at all surprised that provision of this sort was left out of Kennedy's civil rights package program," the Arizona Republican said in an interview. "I don't think the administration will support the amendment in a showdown but I am going to give its supporters a chance to go on record." Goldwater said in an interview.

Launching the administration civil rights bill on its troublesome course through Congress was a five-hour job for the attorney general, who was subjected

83 Years Old Today

No Special Fuss on Helen Keller's Birthday

BY FRED GOLDEN

EASTON, Conn. (AP)—After a bustling life, Helen Keller has decided to relax a little.

So there won't be any special fuss today—her 83rd birthday.

But there was no rest for the mailman as he bore his heavy burden to Miss Keller's sprawling old house, Arcan Ridge.

Greetings to the blind and deaf author came from the humble and the great. There also were bouquets of roses, Miss Keller's favorite flower.

"You are one of the select company of men and women whose achievements have become legendary in their own time," wrote President Kennedy.

Activity Limited

In recent years, Miss Keller has limited her activity but she continues as a consultant to the American Foundation for the Blind.

"Miss Keller is happy, alert and content," says Mrs. Evelyn Seide, her secretary and companion. "But she now wants to enjoy some of the quiet that has been denied her over the years."

With Miss Keller today were her brother, Phillip Brooks Keller of Dallas, Tex., and her sister, Mrs. Mildred Tyson of Montgomery, Ala.

The cook baked a three-tiered cake for the family gathering. A bottle of champagne was chilled. Some neighbors stopped at the door of the country house, but they left quickly after offering good wishes.

Miss Keller was especially pleased by a letter from Sen. Lester Hill of Alabama, her native state. He told her the Senate recently gave overwhelming approval to legislation providing assistance for training teachers of children who are deaf, blind or otherwise handicapped.

Miss Keller hopes to catch up with some of the reading she has been too busy to do.

She likes to soak up the sun on a terrace overlooking her garden. Her pet dogs give her some merry moments.

Hope Dims; Tax Fight Goes Into Fourth Day

Both Parties Unhappy With 'Compromise'

Debate Highlighted
By Lawmakers'
Grimaces, Grumbles

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The legislature will probably patch up a tax bill during the next week, but nobody can now predict with any confidence what it will contain when it is submitted to the inspection of Gov. John W. Reynolds.

Lawmakers are laboring over the so-called "compromise" budget and tax bill offered ten days ago by the Democratic executive with grimaces and grumbling of the kind indulged by children swallowing a distasteful dose of medicine.

They don't like what they are doing — on either side of the partisan aisle — but they also know that if they balk too much they may bring about another defiant veto from the Democratic governor who refused a month ago to sign another revenue bill put through by the Republican legislative majority.

It is now reasonably certain that the Senate can scrape up enough Republican and Democratic votes to approve a rough approximation of the compromise measure drawn up by the governor.

But the reaction of the assembly is highly uncertain.

Most of the Republican leaders of the house are saying that they have not committed themselves. Democrats are saying that they cannot promise a majority of their votes unless they are

Vatican Council To Reconvene in Late September

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has formally ordered the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council to reconvene Sept. 29, the Vatican announced today.

An announcement by the Vatican's special council press office disclosed the date and said the text of the order will be sent to Roman Catholic bishops around the world.

More than 2,500 are expected to come to Rome for the assembly, the biggest gathering of Roman Catholic prelates in history. The council was first called by Pope John XXIII to promote the cause of Christian unity.

The council convened last Oct. 11. Pope John recessed it on Dec. 8 until Sept. 8, but it was automatically suspended by Pope John's death.

Pope Paul, 24 hours after his election, announced in his first Alain Peyrefitte, obviously speaking on behalf of President Charles de Gaulle.

Kennedy Makes Sentimental Visit to Home of Ancestors

'Be Happy,
Go Rocky'
Or 'AU H2O'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The campaign gadgemen have come to town to show politicians how to win in '64 with such sure-fire items as shopping bags emblazoned with "Be Happy — Go Rocky." Indian headdresses and even pickled oysters.

Only congressmen and "practicing politicians" are invited to the showing of the specially advertised, a strictly nonpartisan outfit. And a walk through the 100 plus exhibits stirs thoughts of campaigns past as well as future.

There are buttons and balloons urging votes for "Kennedy and Johnson." Right beside them is the slogan "Our Nation Needs Nixon."

But the apparent frontrunner among new novelties at the 1964 campaign showing are shiny metal emblems, ranging in size from lapel tabs to wall hangings, bearing the lettering "AU H2O." Any bright schoolboy can tell you that is chemistry language for Goldwater.

The exhibitors are quick to explain that any of their wares can be used by any party or candidate. One salesman proudly shows his "turncoat" ball point pen and the little metal elephant and donkey symbols that can be clipped on or off in seconds as the occasion demands.

Yo-yo toys, pencils and plaques are available with "vote for," "support" and other exhortations, leaving only the name or the party to be filled in.

A Pocahontas-style head piece, with a real feather, sells for a nickel, for quantity orders. The party name can be changed, but this one says: "Little Indian now a Republican later."

"Don't eat me," warns the label on a transparent plastic bottle containing a pickled oyster. The label also guarantees the oyster will contain "one cultured pearl or more." This costs a dollar or two.

French Say They Never Doubted Intention of U. S. to Defend Europe

PARIS (AP) — A government spokesman said today France never has doubted President Kennedy's intention to defend Western Europe but wondered if this policy will be carried out by his successor.

The direct reply to Kennedy's speech Tuesday at Frankfurt came from Information Minister election, announced in his first Alain Peyrefitte, obviously speaking on behalf of President Charles de Gaulle.

Drinks Tea in Barnyard With Cousins and Their Neighbors

DUNGANSTOWN, Ireland (AP) was having too good a time to President Kennedy returned to tear himself away abruptly. For the homestead of his Irish forefathers today and drank tea in helicopter to fly to Wexford the barnyard with cousins and their neighbors.

The President's third cousin, widow Mary Ann Ryan, laid long tables for tea, cakes and pies to serve "Cousin Jack."

Neighbors, some in their Sunday best and some in aprons, helped serve.

The party assembled in the barnyard between Mrs. Ryan's house and the tin-roofed cottage of the President's great-grandfather, Patrick Kennedy, left when he emigrated to Boston 120 years ago.

The cottage now is a storage shed for the cheers of thousands.

The streets of New Ross—a virtually sleepy port of 5,000—bulged with crowds of excited Irish who cheered wildly as the President rode to the quay in an open car.

Chairman A.R. Minihan of the Town Council told Kennedy: "The late Pope John XXIII was known as the Pope of Peace. We would like you, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, to be known as the President of Peace."

Minihan and the other councilors presented Kennedy with gifts of lace, jewelry and china.

At the President's request, a group of violins and flutes struck up a medley of Irish reels.

The President thanked Mrs. Ryan and "all the Kennedys who stayed here" for the party.

"This was a fine effort and we thank you very much," the President said. "I promise you we won't come back oftener than once every 10 years."

Ambassador Matthew McCloskey kept reminding the President it was time to go but Kennedy wasn't ready to leave.

Three Incidents Investigated

U. S. Reacts With Little Excitement, Some Curiosity to Sex, Spy Scandals

BY STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A trio of sex and spy scandals in Europe and the United Nations seems to have aroused some curiosity but little excitement in official Washington, U.S. officials said today.

The FBI won't say anything officially, but U.S. agents obviously are investigating the Profumo affair in England, the Swedish spy scandal and an alleged call girl racket at the United Nations. But no official, either in the Kennedy administration or in Congress, is contending that the succession of scandals has wrenched the security of the United States. Most officials are keeping their views to themselves.

"You don't hear it talked about much in Congress," said Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

Tower, one of the few congressmen to comment, had this to say about the Profumo affair in England: "I think the concern on the U.S. security side is relatively mild."

But, Tower added: "My big concern is what this will do to the Tory government."

Tower said the latest scandal—the arrest of Swedish Air Force Col. Stig Erik Wennerstrom as a Soviet spy—broke too recently to see how it affects the security of the United States, but "I would be more concerned about the Swedish affair than the British affair."

At the State Department, all officials were meeting requests for comment with a stiff "no comment."

Wennerstrom, arrested in Stockholm, was accused of turning over military data on Sweden and other countries. The Swedes did not name the other countries, but they presumably included the United States.

Wennerstrom was Sweden's air attache in Washington from 1952 to 1957. This job gave him access to secrets involved in Sweden's purchase of the U.S. Army Hawk missile system in 1960.

Budget Has Been Cut by $4 Million

MADISON (AP) — A compromise budget and tax proposal, shorn of $4 million of its revenue potential and threatened with the loss of more, hung on for the fourth day of debate in the Wisconsin Senate today.

Republican and Democratic leaders alike still held hope for passage of the measure. But both sides feared additional changes might do irreparable damage to the bill's original balance between $634 million in state spending for 1963 - 65 and new taxes needed to cover the record outlay.

While debate continued on amendments taken from a pile that totaled 48 before adjournment Wednesday, the prospect of completing the legislative process by Monday was lessening.

Biennium Ends

The state's current biennium ends Sunday night, and to install a new level of services an enacted budget would have to be ready Monday.

The biggest money amendment passed Wednesday took from the proposal $1.3 million that would have been collected through a three per cent sales tax on intrastate telephone tolls.

On the other side of the ledger, $570,000 was taken from budget appropriations with adoption of an amendment to eliminate state-supported educational television.

A proposed additional boost in income tax rates was rejected in a 22-11 vote. The compromise already calls for a two-fifth of one per cent increase in income tax rates and an amendment by Sen. Martin Schreiber, D-Milwaukee, would have added one-tenth of one per cent to make the total increase one-half of one per cent.

Millions Involved

The Milwaukee senator's amendment would have used the additional income tax money to replace sales taxes which he wanted removed from water and home fuel bills. About $10.5 million.

Negro's Chances For Employment in North Very Slim

Unions, Business Credit Situation To Lack of Skills Among Colored

BY STANLEY MEISLER
WASHINGTON, AP—Negroes have less chance than white to get a high paying job in the North but most employers and unions deny this stems from racial discrimination. Negro leaders generally con-

Job discrimination is one of the key targets of Negro demonstrations in the North. Picketing and scuffling already have erupted in Philadelphia and New York. Negro leaders are scheduling demonstrations in other Northern cities soon. The Associated Press asked its correspondents in New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago and Washington to report on the problems and prospects in their areas. Here is a roundup of the picture in the North, based on these reports.

tend it does. In Chicago for example, they say that hardly any one downtown hires Negroes as office workers, store clerks, or skilled craftsmen.

"The Loop of Chicago looks like a snowstorm at 5 o'clock," says Hamp McKinnon of the Urban League of Chicago "with only here and there a little brown speck in it."

But employers and unions say that situations like this are not caused by racial discrimination. They say there aren't enough qualified Negroes to fill the jobs available.

Reports from Associated Press bureaus in New York, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Detroit, San Francisco and Chicago and from government agencies in Washington indicate a similar pattern.

Searing Issue

Negro charges of job discrimination have flamed into one of the most searing racial problems in the North, where almost half of America's 19 million Negroes live.

Statistics show that Negroes in the North have a more difficult time than whites at getting jobs. But there is controversy over the cause.

Many employers and unions have antidiscrimination clauses in their contracts. They say they honor them. They say they would hire qualified Negroes or take qualified Negroes into apprenticeship.

But Negro leaders insist that job discrimination blocks the way of the Negro in the North.

Jobless Rate

Pickets and police clashed in Philadelphia and New York a few weeks ago in the Negro struggle for more and better jobs. Herbert Hill, labor secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has threatened more demonstrations if the doors of personnel offices and union halls stay closed.

The unemployment rate among Negroes is twice as high as the unemployment rate among whites. The Department of Labor reports that one out of every 10 Negro workers is out of a job.

What for the white worker has been a mild or temporary recession, Hill says "is for the Negro a full depression."

The vast majority of those Negroes who do jobs are working at the bottom of the heap. Their jobs usually are menial, low-paying and the first eliminated when times get tough.

Employers and unions do not dispute these facts. They simply refuse to accept any responsibility for it. For the record, almost all unions and most businesses in the North say they are against racial discrimination.

"We have no Negroes in our union," says Romeo Jensen, business representative of the AFL-CIO Iron Workers Local 11 in Newark, N.J., "and the reason is, nobody has applied, to my knowledge. I don't believe in any discrimination of any sort."

Company Policy

"The company policy has been and will continue to be a non-discriminatory one," says John E. Joyce Jr., a Newark contractor. "I must admit, though, I never remember hiring a colored plumber or steamfitter."

In the current crisis, most of the anger of Northern Negroes rushes at the old craft unions in the building trades.

The problem of craft union discrimination says Philip A. Camponeschi, chief attorney of the Civil Rights Commission's employment section is "as significant as the problem of eating at lunch counters in the South. How significant is that to the whole problem of discrimination?" He shrugged. "Not very. But it's a irritant, and it's the focus now for attacks by Negroes."

Leaders of the AFL-CIO admit that the craft unions have discriminated against Negroes. At the same time the leaders resent the current furor by Negroes over the situation. The resentment stems from three basic beliefs of the AFL-CIO leaders:

1. That the record of the AFL-CIO on the whole, has favored the Negro.

2. That the AFL-CIO is doing the best it can to change the policies of its craft unions.

Craft Unions

3. That the end of discrimination by the small craft unions would hardly improve the general job situation for Negroes.

Nevertheless, the record remains to anger American Negroes in all America, there are only 300 union-licensed Negro plumbers and electricians far less than the number of Negroes with doctorate degrees.

Hill says that the Sheet Metal Workers Local in New York has no Negroes among its 3,200 members and the Plumbers Local has two Negro apprentices among its 3,300 members.

In Detroit last year, the Iron Workers Local trained 66 apprentices, none Negro, the Plumbers Local trained 128 apprentices, none Negro, the Sheetmetal Workers trained 158 apprentices, 7 Negro.

The craft unions pattern themselves in some ways after the medieval guilds. They are ex-

Golden Eggs Will Not be forthcoming from these geese, but they couldn't be more valuable to mint farmers of Washington State's Columbia Basin, near Othello. clusive associations that restrict membership, often allowing few other than relatives to enter their apprenticeship programs.

The leaders of the craft unions, when pressed, will say that they would allow Negroes into the apprentice programs if Negroes applied.

But Negro youngsters, who stick out 10 fingers, and you'll be disturbed at the record of employment of the craft unions, find 10 reasons. You want me to rarely bother to apply. Often they say all these reasons mean discrimination. Sure, it's discrimination. It's the story of the Negro in America.

10 Reasons

"What's the reason?" asks Camponeschi. "Close your eyes and craft unions, often are just as same argument as the leaders of the craft unions: they would hire Negroes if they were qualified or educated or skilled.

And so the cycle goes on. Employers and unions say Negroes aren't qualified. Without union membership and without jobs, Negroes can't get the education and training to become qualified.

The flurry of demonstrations during the last few weeks has spurred some action from unions, employers, and the government.

AFL-CIO Pressure

The AFL-CIO has put pressure on craft unions to make room for Negro apprentices.

President Kennedy has banned racial discrimination on construction projects paid for, in whole or part, by federal funds.

The President also has asked Congress to pass a massive vocational education program to train Negroes for higher paying jobs.

Will these steps soften Northern Negro anger? Some experts fear the problem may not be solved for many years, for it takes time to train skilled workers and it begun

Community Families Gain Children as Pool Season Opens

PRAIRIE VILLAGE, Kan. (AP)—The population really exploded in this eastern Kansas community this summer.

City Clerk Jane Scott discovered it after the community swimming pool opened. The pool operates with a sliding scale of charges from individual single admissions to a "swim all you want" arrangement for families.

This summer, Mrs. Scott said, she discovered that one couple which had no children last year, now claims five. Another registered with six although census records show it has none.

A few telephone inquiries, the clerk said, resulted in 19 swimming passes being surrendered by persons with guilty consciences.

It takes time to create incentive among young Negroes.

Meanwhile, campaigns will go on, and tempers may flare.

Job discrimination obviously hurts the Negro in the North more than any other form of discrimination. The long battle against it has begun.

Public Should Learn About Lawyers Service

BY SYLVIA PORTER
Almost 4 out of 10 Americans have no legal protection or service whatsoever. Among us who are users, many think of lawyers only for the "must" services — accidents, damage suits, divorce. Few think of a lawyer as the guardian of the individual's rights and as offering services in the areas of taxes, real estate, business advice.

Porter

In general reputation, lawyers rate substantially below most other professions. The person who uses a lawyer actually has a lower opinion of the ethical standards of the profession than the person who does not use one. A majority of lawyers themselves believe they overcharge in certain fields — particularly when fees depend on results (contingent fees) and in personal injury cases. The public not only feels the same way about these fees but also is highly dissatisfied with the way most lawyers present bills for services rendered. There's a shocking lack of confidence among large numbers about the possibility of getting a fair trial in the courts, opinion of traffic courts is abysmally low and the individual who has direct knowledge of the courts has less knowledge in them than the person whose knowledge is restricted to TV, movies, newspapers, radio. Most lawyers think the best way to build a practice is through extra-practice activities (getting around and meeting people), but the fact is two-thirds of us choose a lawyer strictly on the basis of his general reputation for capability and honesty. Only 35 per cent of us believe lawyers are honest and truly dedicated to their profession. These are some of the startling findings of the most comprehensive, probing study ever undertaken of any profession — in this case, the legal profession. The survey was initiated by the Missouri Bar almost three years ago, so and the millions of us who do use lawyers do not use them to the extent we should. Now this survey pinpoints the reasons — the public's ignorance of services, lawyers perform, distrust of fees and courts, etc. Of course, the aim of the Mis-

The legal profession will be pleased by few of the findings. Yet, the very criticism, based on so exhaustive a study, can make a major contribution to the legal profession's economic future and to the protection of the public. The blunt truth is that for 25 years, the economic position of the legal profession has been declining in comparison with other professions. There has been growing awareness that this has been due to the fact that millions who should be using legal services are not doing so and the millions of us who do use lawyers do not use them to the extent we should. Now this survey pinpoints the reasons — the public's ignorance of services, lawyers perform, distrust of fees and courts, etc. Of course, the aim of the Missouri Bar-Practice Hall study is to prod the organized profession into corrective measures. Among its specific recommendations are these: The Code of Ethics governing the profession must be clarified and the lawyer educated to the extent to which he may go in giving us a "complete legal check-up" and to which he may ethically volunteer advice. Lawyers must recognize that when they criticize an opposing counsel, a judge or jury, they are downgrading their entire profession in a client's mind. This criticism explains why users of lawyers have less respect for the profession than non-users. Should Discuss Fees Lawyers should discuss fees with us at the earliest opportunity, should itemize their bills in detail. Fee schedules should be developed and encouraged and an effort should be made to achieve some degree of uniformity on fees on a state-wide basis. The organized Bar should put strong emphasis on improvement of jury trial and court procedures and improvement of traffic courts should be a prime objective. Many of this survey's conclusions will defy long-held assumptions of the legal profession, but, say the authors, "That has been the purpose — to separate facts from assumptions so that action programs can be taken" to improve the profession's economic status. The organized Bar should put

Farmer, 75, Burns to Death Under Tractor

Weyauwega Man
Pinned as Machine
Rolls, Catches Fire

WEYAUWEGA — A 75-year-old Weyauwega farmer was burned to death about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday when he was pinned under his tractor which tipped over and caught fire.

Dead is Edward Haffner, route 2, Weyauwega.

Dr. Sam Salan, county coroner, who pronounced Haffner dead at the accident scene, said Haffner was pinned under the tractor by a leg or a foot.

Undersheriff William Mork and county police captain Royal Myhill said Haffner was operating a tractor with an attached mower in a hay field on his home farm. The tractor hit a large boulder in the field, tipped over and caught fire. Flaming gasoline spilled on Haffner's legs, Undersheriff Mork said.

Herman Buchholz, a neighbor, who was helping Haffner with the haying until about 20 minutes before the accident, was the first to arrive at the fire. He said Haffner appeared dead when he arrived. He said he saw the fire and drove his car to the field.

On Back Field

The accident took place in a gully on one of the back fields on the farm.

Buchholz said Haffner stuck the tractor he was operating on another boulder in the field earlier Wednesday afternoon. Another tractor was used to pull Haffner's tractor off the boulder.

Haffner was driving the tractor down a hill toward the east when it struck the boulder.

Talks Recessed In Pact Dispute

Walkout Threatened
By Employees of Food Chain Stores

Talks have been recessed to July 8 in negotiations for a new contract between several locals of the Retail Clerks International Association, AFL-CIO, and food store chains throughout the Fox River Valley and northern Wisconsin areas.

The unions recently took a strike vote and overwhelmingly authorized a walkout should agreement not be reached. No strike date has been set.

Federal Mediator Ed Larson, Green Bay, has met several times with both sides in the dispute, which centers around wages. A union spokesman reported that progress has been made.

Locals 214 of Oshkosh, 1652 of Green Bay, 949 of Wausau and 1685 of Stevens Point are negotiating a contract with the A and P Co., Appleton, Neenah and Oshkosh; IGA Stores, Fond du Lac; Kroger-Krambo Co., Antigo, Appleton, Fond du Lac, Manitowish, Marinette, Neenah, Oshkosh, Sheboygan and Wausau; National Foods, Neenah, Stevens Point and Wausau; Red Owl, Oshkosh; and Super Value, Manitowish and Oshkosh.

Clerks have been working at the stores under contracts which expired April 28. The first mediation meeting was held Wednesday at Appleton.

Members of the Appleton and Menasha Fire Departments inspected the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center Wednesday in line with a recent contract by the two units to provide fire protection at the school. Discussing the inspection with Verne Imhoff, left, director of the center, are Appleton Fire Chief Roland Kuehnl, acting Menasha Fire Chief William Akstulewicz and assistant Appleton Fire Chief Harold Kramer. # Calumet Town Okays Zoning Plan

Charlestown Adopts Ordinance
For County-Regulated Land Use

CHILTON — The Town of Charlestown has become the third Calumet County township to officially adopt the county zoning ordinance.

Town Clerk Harold Woelfel filed an ordinance adopted by the town board with Roland Miller, county clerk and zoning administrator. The ordinance declared the township to be a zoned area governed by all the regulations of the county plan.

The move climaxed a series of special elector and board meetings called by the town board in recent months. At the first session, Orrin Meyer, secretary of the County Park Commission which also serves as the county zoning board, outlined the advantages of regulated land use to town residents.

After the informational meeting, a committee comprised of Carl Peik, Alfons Reiser, Linus Woelfel, Harold Woelfel and Elmer Kolbe conducted a study of zoning and its potential relationship to the township. Committee findings were reviewed at a meeting three weeks ago.

Accepted by Electors
The committee recommendations were accepted by the electors. With the backing of the voters, the board adopted the zoning ordinance. The move will be reported to the Calumet County Board of Supervisors at the next board session. A formality, the report concludes the legal procedure.

Board Goes Out on a Limb

Cottonwood Tree Ban Proposed To Eliminate 'Summer Snowfalls'

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton's cottonwood trees are caught in a community crisis.

The word leaked out today that the park board has set the machinery in motion to rid the city of the cottonwoods, which have generated "snowfalls" in some neighborhoods in recent weeks.

The park board says female cottonwoods should be the first to be eradicated from the local scene. A recommendation to this effect has been forwarded to the common council for action.

Residents Aroused

Mayor Clarence Mitchell recently informed the park department that his office was being deluged with citizen complaints over cotton floating through the air in some neighborhoods.

The cotton has asthma and hayfever sufferers all shook up.

City Forester Roger Rindl and

Weed Commissioner Harold Jerke reported today that some Appleton residents are "up in the air" over the nuisance that the fuzzies of the cottonwood poses to the community in general.

The so-called cotton balls have been in the air about the city since May and are expected to continue their lazy, destination-unknown flights through July. The cottonwood looks somewhat similar to the poplar tree.

Jerke said the fact the park board wants to get rid of the female trees first was "self explanatory". He indicated that under the terms of the proposed ordinance the board would like approved, the male trees would be granted a stay of execution.

"No Good"

"Let's face it," Jerke said, "cottonwood trees are no good in the city."

"In fact, they are a lot more trouble than they're worth," he added.

Jerke said cottonwoods have

Frank Hermesen was named employment manager to fill the vacancy created by the promotion of Gerend. The changes are expected to take effect about Aug. 1 when L. C. Smith, director of Industrial relations, retires.

In announcing the changes, Dostal noted, "With the growing importance of labor and personnel and all of the related activities, the specific responsibilities of the industrial relations division will be broadened and divided into two sections following Les Smith's retirement. N. F. Gerend and J. M. Wall will be department managers reporting directly to the president."

Woman Injured In 3-Car Mishap

KAUKAUNA — A woman was injured and three cars damaged in an accident on Lawe Street near the library about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, according to police.

Mrs. Mildred Faust, 921 Taft St., Kaukauna, suffered a cut mouth and was treated at a local physician's office, as a result of the crash. The mishap occurred as Edward Rennie, 67, 206 Klien St., Kaukauna, stopped in a line of traffic going north on Lawe Street as the car in front of him was making a left turn onto the library grounds.

Mrs. Faust stopped her car behind the Rennie vehicle. A car driven by James Friehe, 18, 509 Green St., Kaukauna, collided with the back of the Faust car pushing it into the Rennie auto. No estimate of damage was given.

Wolf River Basin Commission Advisory Unit, State Officials Discuss Coordination of Efforts

NEW LONDON — Members of the newly created wildlife resources advisory committee of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission met here Wednesday to discuss problems and possible solutions for promoting a well-managed wildlife program for the basin.

One of the main concerns of the group is the need to preserve land and water habitat areas of the basin. High on the priority list of the committee, several members said, was to have various agencies such as fish management, the soil conservation service, the conservation department, the Corps of Army Engineers and other agencies combine their efforts to work harmoniously to speed the wildlife development program.

Several soil conservationists and members of the state fish management department attended the meeting and explained what their individual departments are doing at the present time and what problems they are encountering in their attempts to better wildlife resources.

Being the first meeting of the committee, Gordon A. Bubolz, chairman of the commission, conducted the meeting until George E. Framberger, Oshkosh, was elected as chairman of the advisory group. The meeting was held here at the Rainbow Super Club.

Bubolz said the committee's duty will be to investigate all avenues for the betterment of wild life and report to the commission.

Robert Wendt, fish manager from Minocqua, said the program cannot be overemphasized. The 3,700 square miles of land which is the watershed of the Wolf River Basin is its life blood. Public support must be behind such a program, and private land owners along the river banks should be aware of the great part they can play in such a project.

Detailed Inventories
A program now underway by the state fisheries was explained by Arthur Oehmke, Woodruff. Detailed inventories of water resources and watersheds in the various counties is now underway at the present time, he said.

Another one of the department's projects has been improving spring seepage along the upper reaches of the river. Richard Herres, another fishery supervisor present, said his department has not been able to make any long range plans because various department thinking.

Twin City Pair Admits Break-in Of Gas Station

OSHKOSH — Two Twin City men have admitted taking part in the break-in Wednesday morning at Gib's Service Station, 333 Main St., Neenah, from which about $20 was taken.

Gary R. Lee, 20, 383 Oak St., Menasha, pleaded guilty of breaking into the station and Michael Petersen, 20, 231 E. Wisconsin Ave., Neenah, pleaded guilty of aiding and abetting in the break-in.

County Judge James Sitter ordered a pre-sentence investigation and set sentencing for July 9. The two men were given the detector tests Wednesday afternoon at Green Bay.

Lee said he entered the station because he had paid out $275 in bonds for traffic violations in the last three weeks.

Both youths were jailed until sentencing.

Drop Charges Against Night Club Owner

Judge Keller Rules
Operator Did Not Violate State Law

Two charges of staying open after hours against an Appleton night club owner were dismissed Wednesday by Judge Gustave Keller.

Glen Merkel, operator of the Embers, 730 W. College Ave., was cleared in a ruling set down by Judge Keller in which he held that a tavern owner can, within reasonable limits, remain in his place of business to clean up or return to the establishment to check equipment such as heating units.

Merkel was charged by Appleton police with remaining open after the 1 a.m. closing hour March 26 and after the 2 a.m. limit May 5. He denied both counts.

Judge Keller said testimony indicated Merkel and his wife left the tavern on March 26 and returned about 3 a.m. to check heating equipment. Only Mr. and Mrs. Merkel were in the tavern and the doors were locked, testimony showed.

Judge Keller held that the action of the tavern owner was within the limits set down by the state attorney general permitting tavern owners to return, within a reasonable time, to check equipment.

Merkel said the May 5 incident came about 2:35 a.m. as he, his wife and an employee remained in the tavern to clean up.

"Under the circumstances and taking into consideration and believing that it is the custom and a necessity for tavern keepers to clean up the debris, the glasses, the bar, etc., the court is of the opinion 2:35 was not an unreasonable hour," Judge Keller ruled.

Commends Officers

The judge commended the arresting officers in both instances for doing their duty and told Merkel the city has the right to carry out its ordinances and to direct its police officers to check and see that the terms of the ordinances are being observed.

And Judge Keller sounded another warning: "I do not want the ruling I made here . . . to give to the tavern keepers any idea they can keep open after closing hours."

"The city demands an express-hour hour. Reasonable time is allowed for the operators in the regular and reasonable conduct of their business to clean up, but if any tavern keeper comes in here and with an unreasonable period of time—any patrons in his tavern—the situation will be entirely different."

Catholic Youth Activities Unit Sets Hootenanny

The Catholic Activities Council (CAC) will sponsor a hootenanny at 8:30 p.m. Friday at Xavier Commons.

Featured on the program will be the Mad Hatters, a group of folk singers from Appleton.

The four girls making up the Mad Hatters are Lynn Kellogg, vocalist; Ede Kellogg, guitarist; Tara Graham, banjo; and Ann McMahon, bass.

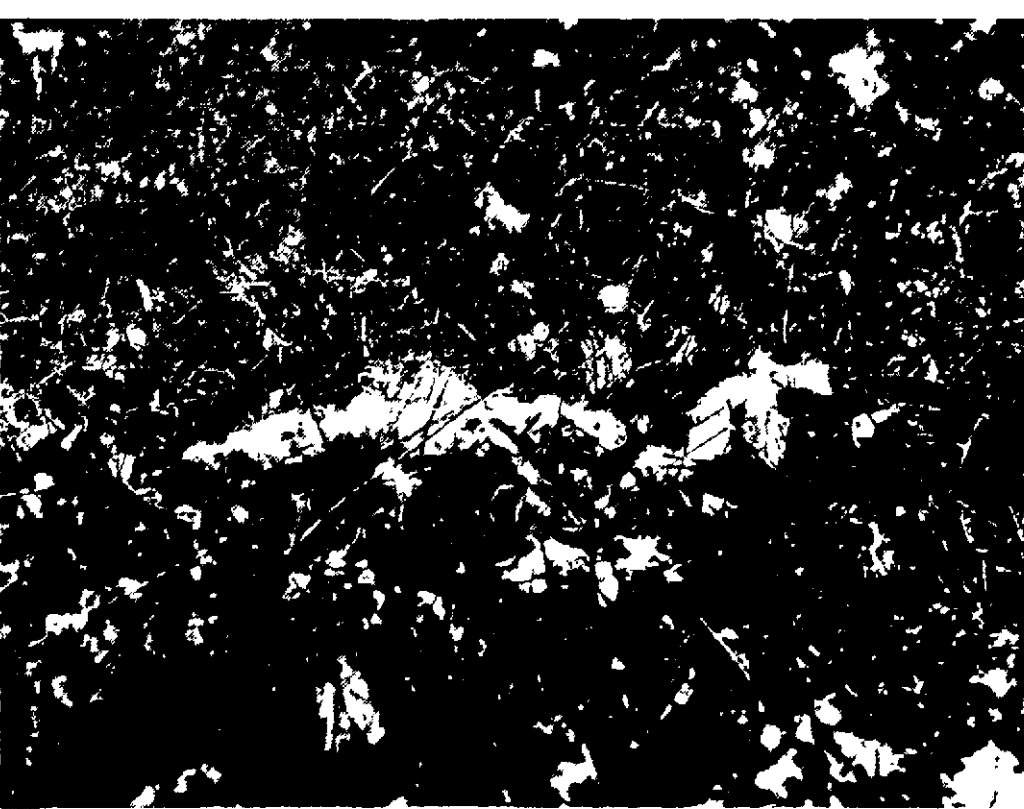

Lynn is a student at the University of Wisconsin. Ede and Tara will be freshmen at UW this fall, and Ann will be a senior at Appleton High School.

David Huesey, new director of CAC, described attendance at the summer youth program as good. Some nights it has gone over 400 young people, he said; and it has not dropped below 200.

11-Month-Old Boy Injured in Pool Fall

MENASHA — Mark Curtin, 11 month old son of Mrs. James Curtin, 625 Third St., Menasha, was treated and released from Theda Clark Memorial Hospital after he fell at the small wading pool at the Menasha Pool about 6:59 p.m. Wednesday.

Nedice said the youth, who was taken to the hospital in a police squad car, lost several teeth in the mishap.

In Recent Weeks it has been snowing and blowing cotton in parts of Appleton. The park board has blamed cottonwood trees for cotton-covered lawns, such as the one shown on E. Glendale Avenue. "We've raked our lawn five times in the last week," said the neighbor of a cottonwood tree owner. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Fond du Lac Opposes Port In Outagamie

County Board Asks For Permission to Intervene in Hearings

FOND DU LAC — Another Fox Valley governmental unit has lined up with the opposition in an attempt to block Outagamie County's bid for regional airport certification.

Public hearings on certification requests will be conducted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at Wausau, July 9.

The latest to indicate it will oppose Outagamie County's request to be designated as the port to serve this region with airline service is the Fond du Lac County Board.

The board took official action this week to request permission from the CAB to intervene in the hearings.

Fond du Lac County intends to align itself with Winnebago County, City of Oshkosh, Brown County and City of Green Bay in opposing Outagamie County's plans.

Urges Intervention
R. W. Mills, executive secretary of the Fond du Lac Association of Commerce, appeared before the Fond du Lac County Board and urged that it intervene in the hearings. Fond du Lac County has a new class 3 industrial-feeder line airport for which it received more than $600,000 in state and federal aid.

Previously, the Fond du Lac Chamber and city officials received assurance from a high-ranking Winnebago County official that services of a Washington attorney (hired by Winnebago County) would be available to them without charge—providing they appeared in behalf of Winnebago County at the hearings.

A recent recommendation of a consultant contracted by the Wisconsin Aeronautics Commission indicates the new Outagamie County Airport when constructed, would generate more business than the Oshkosh port.

Party Leaders Advise YGOP to Work on Unity

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Feuding Young Republicans took time out today to hear from senior party leaders expected to counsel unity.

The main excitement centered over the night speech due to be delivered by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., clearly the hero of more than 1,000 youthful Republicans going into the third day of their four-day convention.

Also slated to appear were former U.S. Sen. William Knowland of California in the morning and freshman Sen. Jack Miller of Iowa at noon.

All three were expected to join the lead of Oregon Gov. Mark Felt, who advised the Young Republicans Wednesday to form a united front and stop intra-party warfare.

Scattered Showers and thundershowers are predicted tonight for much of the western two thirds of the nation. It should be clear to partly cloudy elsewhere. Cooler weather is forecast for northern parts of the north Atlantic Coast, upper Great Lakes and Pacific Coast states, with little change elsewhere. (AP Wire-photo Map)

Storms Hit State

Madison Woman Hit By Bolt of Lightning

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A mother who dashed outside to close the family car windows against a heavy rain was killed by lightning Wednesday as isolated but violent thundershowers struck portions of Wisconsin.

A truck driver also died when his vehicle plunged off a bridge after hitting another vehicle during a drenching rain.

The most violent of the storms were in the Madison area and in Washington County near West Bend.

Mrs. Albert Schwenn, 34, of Madison was hit by lightning as she ran to close the windows in the family car as the storm hit about 5:30 p.m. She was the mother of two small children and was expecting a third.

A police officer was only 25 feet away when she was killed. The lightning touched nothing else in the area.

Trucker Killed
Herman Christian, 26, of Sauk City, was killed when his semi-trailer truck plunged off a bridge into the IX Mile Creek in Waunakee, just north of Madison. Dane County police said Christian's truck had nicked the rear of another during a heavy rainstorm.

Several Madison buildings were hit by lightning, including the Gisholt Machine Mfg. Co., where the power was knocked out. Electrical service also was disrupted on the north, south and east side of Madison and a number of utility wires and trees were knocked down.

Trees were uprooted by the high winds that accompanied a rain and hail storm in the West Bend area in the afternoon. A few highways and streets in West Bend and in northern Washington County were flooded briefly by the downpour.

F. C. Hervey, engineer at WHKW-FM, Chilton, said the storm knocked out service to the entire state FM network temporarily. Hervey said a bolt of lightning hit WHA-FM, Madison, program center for the rest of the network, at 5:43 p.m.

He said the station was off the air until 6:12 p.m. The Chilton Field, who advised the Young Republicans Wednesday to form a united front and stop intra-party warfare.

In the Fox Valley area, there were no thundershowers, but the temperature and humidity rose to highly uncomfortable levels. The Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., Appleton's cooperative observer, said the discomfort index reached 81, indicating the weather was uncomfortable for everyone.

Wednesday's high at the power company was 90. At 9 a.m. today, the temperature was 83, with the relative humidity at 67 per cent, the dew point at 67 and the discomfort index at 75 (uncomfortable for 50 per cent of the people).

The U.S. Weather Bureau, Austin Straubel Field, Green Bay, this morning predicted widely scattered thundershowers today, tonight and Friday in the Fox Valley, with a high temperature of 90 Friday.

Nebraska Storm
Thunderstorms Wednesday night and early this morning also hit parts of eastern Nebraska in areas still recovering from floods caused by heavy rains earlier in the week.

Continued heavy rains over Georgia have threatened the state's $90 million tobacco crop. Some 7.4 inches of rain fell.

Wisdom of a People Expressed in Proverbs

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The robust wisdom of a people is expressed in folk sayings—in proverbs and mottoes.
"Know thyself," counseled the ancient Greeks, and thereby said it all.
Since then we have become a great deal more verbose.
Through most of human history, folk wisdom has been expressed in direct sayings and forthright advice.
Thus said Benjamin Franklin, an American wispspring of this form of knowledge:
"Penny wise, pound foolish."
"If a man could have half his wishes, he would double his troubles."
"He that teaches himself hath a fool for a master."
"Love your neighbor, but don't pull down your hedge."
Value of Money
"If you would know the value of money, try to borrow some."
Many a living room then flooded with samplers that said, "God Bless Our Happy Home."
Simpler times were exemplified by simpler sayings.
Now we live in a complex and confusing time, and our folk wisdom is expressed in complex sayings with a reverse twist. Our mottoes have become as schizophrenic as our thoughts, and reflect the double talk that has become our normal language.
We communicate by speaking backwards.
Modern Sayings
Go into any office or factory in the land and you'll see on wall

1963 Echoes Despair

and desk the clouded counsel of our day. I have at hand a small book of these sad witticisms entitled "Signs of Our Times."
Here are a few examples of what the book calls "the choicest, most hilarious contemporary signs ever created":
"If you don't understand it, oppose it!"
"In case of nuclear attack, run like hell!"
"It's better to give than to receive, so what have you brought me?"
"If I weren't so busy, I'd take time off to join in the confusion."
That seems to be the key word in our attitude today—confusion.
Such mixed-up counsels of despair we give each other, and seek thereby a consolation more wry than ribald.
If a people can be judged by their mottoes, then we dwell in a time of hollow laughter that echoes an inner despair.
That's why psychiatry now dwells in a penthouse—and philosophy inhabits a hovel.

U. S. Congress Must Work Under Duress

Civil Rights Bills Considered Because Of Riots, Threats

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — A legislative process that operates under duress is unprecedented in the halls of Congress. The Attorney General of the United States, Robert F. Kennedy, in presenting to the House Judiciary Committee his proposals for "civil rights" legislation, made several references to recent street demonstrations in various cities and "the violence which has sometimes accompanied them."

Lawrence

He said these were a direct result of racial discrimination and that the resentments which had arisen due to racial discriminations were "justified."

Nowhere in the statement was it explained why it required the stimulus of "demonstrations" to bring about consideration by Congress of any of the current legislative proposals.

The Attorney General in his statement discussed constitutional doctrines and indicated some of the barriers that have hitherto caused hesitation in dealing with these same racial problems. In recommending to Congress now, for instance, the passage of a law that would forbid racial discrimination in restaurants, lunch counters, places of amusement, stores and hotels, Mr. Kennedy states that, because these facilities are open to the public, they are not at all "like a private home or a private club to which the owner invites only the guests he selects."

This differentiation has never been sanctioned by the courts as a basis for interfering with the individual rights of the owner of a business.

Kennedy Theory

The theory evolved by the Department of Justice, however, is that, because a business concern deals with the public, it may be subject to complete regulation or possibly extermination by the federal government. This alleged authority is derived from the cause of the constitution which gives Congress the power to regulate interstate commerce, and Mr. Kennedy cited various laws passed by Congress in this field. Not a single one of these statutes, however, covers the selection of customers of a business. They deal with employees, or the practices of the employer in his relations with his own workers, or the practices of business owners in relation to other businesses or in shipping goods to other states or other countries.

Never in the history of the United States has the so-called commerce clause of the constitution been invoked to regulate the customer relationship of a business owner and individual citizens.

The Attorney General conceded that the fourteenth amendment cannot be invoked for equal rights in this category and he correctly referred to the Supreme Court decision of 1883, which specifically held that the federal government could not on its own constitutionally enact legislation in this class of cases because this is a power held by the several states.

Placing reliance, therefore, on the commerce clause of the federal constitution, the head of the Department of Justice, in the course of his statement to the House, said:

"I believe a proprietor might refuse to sell to a disorderly or improperly dressed customer, but no American should be discriminated against because of his color, race or religion."

No Definition

But there is nothing in the court decisions based on the commerce clause of the constitution which denies to any proprietor of a business the right to use his own judgment as to what constitutes a good customer relationship.

The sum and substance of the whole argument seems to be that an owner of a business may always use his own judgment as to whom he may sell his wares but, apparently the moment he allows racial discrimination to enter the recesses of his mind, he can be penalized.

What has not been solved is the dilemma of the business owner who finds that lots of white people will not come to his own establishment if he permits Negroes to crowd into his restaurant. He will then have to decide whether he will permit a few and yet be able to hold the bulk of his white customers. But under the terms of the proposed laws, numbers will not count. Any single act of discrimination would classify him as a violator of the law.

who wish to support the proposals by the Attorney General are suggesting that local boarding houses and smaller restaurants might have to be excluded from the proposed law in order to get it passed this year. It is not explained just how Congress itself can discriminate as between different sizes of restaurants when the actual test for the legislation is supposed to be racial discrimination, no matter how or where it occurs. For what has the size of a business to do with the alleged evil involved?

Speed Necessary

The Attorney General in referring to the recent demonstrations said:

"The events that have occurred since the President's first message — in Birmingham, in Jackson, in nearby Cambridge, in Philadelphia and in many other cities — make it clear that the attack upon these problems must be accelerated."

But some members of Congress are beginning to ask why it was necessary to be influenced by street demonstrations. Racial problems existed a year ago and two years ago, and the inference now is that only the carefully planned parades and "sit-ins" have brought the administration into action.

Legislating under duress is a new experience for Congress. When the debate really begins, it will become evident that Congress does not relish the idea that the new "civil rights" bills are being considered primarily because coercive demonstrations have occurred or because threats are being circulated that, if Congress doesn't pass the laws, there will be outbreaks of violence.

Play Activity For Handicapped To Start Monday

KAUKAUNA — Special recreation activities for handicapped youngsters will get underway at 1 p.m. Monday at LaFollette Park, according to James Gertz, recreation director.

Parents of handicapped are requested to call the director if they plan to enroll children to permit planning the amount of supervision needed. Gertz indicated, Mary Ball and Mary Schwinn have already been assigned to work with these youngsters and additional help will be provided if needed.

Plans call for the girls to work with small groups of youngsters, about five or six to a group, with emphasis on group play and activities designed to maintain interest. Play for the handicapped will be held three or four days per week, depending on interest.

Arrangements will also be made to let this group use pool facilities at special evening hours when no other groups are around to disturb their play. This is the first such effort by the recreation department and changes in activity may be made after a study of abilities and interests of the handicapped, noted the director.

State Commission Views Exhibits for Bergstrom Plant

NEENAH — The only two persons appearing in objection to the proposed new plant of Bergstrom Paper Co. on the government canal near the present plants withdrew their objections during the public hearing held in the city hall by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Herman Peters and Adam Hager voiced objections to the possible air and water pollution they thought might be caused by the operation of the new plant.

The examiner for the state commission explained to them the intent of the public hearing was to hear objections and exhibits on the building itself. They then withdrew their objections to the building and left.

Youth Injured in Auto Accident

MENASHA — Don Wolf, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wolf, 612 Fifth St., Menasha, was treated and released from Theda Clark Memorial Hospital after the bicycle he was riding was struck by an auto at 7:05 p.m. Wednesday in Menasha.

The Wolf boy received a cut on his right hand and bruises on his right leg and chest, according to Menasha police.

The driver of the car was Donald J. Griesbach, 36, 928 E. Fourth St., Menasha. The accident occurred on Fourth Street near Manitowish Street.

Police said a semi-truck was parked across Fourth Street being unloaded and the Wolf boy rode out from in front of the truck and was struck by the auto.

A clerk, appeared on behalf of the city, saying that the Common Council at the June 19 meeting had passed a resolution strongly favoring the construction of the building.

Mayor Carl Loehning said this morning that he is completely in favor of the new building.

Chilton Minister, Wife To Work in Missions

CHILTON — On Sunday morning couple will be sent to Lima, Peru, the Rev. Fred Moore will bid farewell to his congregation at the Grand Street Alliance Church and set out to fulfill a lifelong ambition—missionary work.

A whirlwind of activities are in store for the 30-year-old minister after he leaves Chilton July 1. First on the itinerary is a trip to one of his denomination's Minnesota Bible camps for a pre-ordination examination. He will be formally ordained into the ministry July 3 at the St. Paul headquarters of the Missionary and Alliance denomination.

The denomination requires at least two years of affiliation and work with a congregation after graduation from the seminary or Bible college before ordination. The Rev. Mr. Moore has been with the local congregation since Nov. 27, 1960.

After ordination comes one last vacation before embarking on a five-year tour of missionary duty in South America. The Moores plan to spend three weeks at the Tilden, Neb., home of Mrs. Moore, and another three weeks at Park Falls, the home of the Chilton pastor.

On Aug. 22, the couple will leave from New York on the first leg of their journey to the missions. It will take them to San Jose, Costa Rica, for a solid year of Spanish language training. After completing their language training, the

Go-Ahead Given for Grading at Johnson Elementary School

A look at the state statutes was required before the Appleton Board of Education voted to begin fine grading of the Johnson elementary school site.

The school, located on the southeast side of Appleton, is scheduled to be finished by August. The board approved a request to rent equipment from Badger Highways Co. Inc. to complete the job at an estimated cost of $3,000. The rental includes operators.

There was some question among board members whether the job could be done without taking bids. A check with the statutes showed it would not be necessary if the grading were done under supervision of public school personnel.

Kennedy Assailed by Singer on Civil Rights

TORONTO (AP)—Negro singer Harry Belafonte assailed President Kennedy Wednesday for what he called a bankrupt policy on integration.

"As president and moral leader, Kennedy has been terribly er, administering the type of force he should have been administering from the very beginning," Belafonte told a lunch-hold to raise money for a fund in the name of the Rev. Martin Luther King.

Tumor Takes Life Of Five-Year-Old Milwaukee Tot

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Death came Tuesday night for a little boy for whom Santa Claus made so many trips.

Alan Gerek, who suffered from a malignant brain tumor, died at home on the eve of his sixth birthday.

Publicity was given last winter to the preparations Mr. and Mrs. Gerek were making for their son's last Christmas. Christmas cards and gifts arrived at the home from Milwaukeeans and people as far away as Nebraska.

Mrs. Gerek said she told Alan, "There are so many friends who want to give you gifts that Santa will have to make many trips this year."

His father said today, "Please, if you're going to write an obituary of Alan, thank the people who sent him all the cards for Christmas."

In addition to his parents, Alan is survived by three sisters.

The victory was the fifth in six league games for the Twins and left them with a 7-1 overall mark. Oshkosh also has 3-1.

Gene Loughrin started on the hill for the Menashians but ran into a wild streak in the fifth and gave way to Tom Schoen. The latter hurled four complete innings and Gene Patzner worked the ninth.

Combined, they set theasers down with four hits, walked six and struck out 16.

Leroy Gilson worked the first seven innings for the visitors and he and catcher Ed Ochowicz exchanged positions for the ninth. They gave up five walks and struck out seven.

Twin City scored twice in the second inning on successive doubles by Jim Thomas and Chuck Hoernke and an error. Four runners crossed the plate in the third on two walks, doubles by Thomas and Don Perry and singles by Hoernke and Terry Haark.

A hit batsman, Gib Schoen's hit, a passed ball, an error and a wild pitch resulted in two more markers in the fourth.

One tallied in the sixth on Ken Stumpf's hit, an infield out and error.

The hosts batted around in the eighth, getting their final three runs. The frame included doubles by Stumpf and Mory Quick, a single by Patzner, an error and a wild pitch.

Winneconne scored once in the third inning on a walk, an error and Dave Baitinger's double, pick-up another run in the fifth on Don Lee's hit, two walks and an

CNW's Marina Plans Go to Oshkosh Council

OSHKOSH — A drawing show-commission is a proposal for creating the proposed marina - including a one-block long parking lot complex, planned by the Chicago and North Western Railway Co., immediately east of Hazel on railroad land at the mouth of the Fox River, was submitted around Wednesday night.

William Vandehel was appointed to a 1-year term on the planning commission to fill a vacancy.

In a letter to City Mgr. Ray Harbaugh, Harry Bierma Jr., manager of the railroad's real estate department, said the railroad has had two preliminary meetings with the Wisconsin Public Service Commission in regard to getting permission to build a breakwater and to fill in certain "land areas."

A formal petition also has been filed with the Public Service Commission, Bierma wrote.

The council will refer to the planning commission an offer from the Leach Co. to give the city a portion of its old plant and land on South Main Street and the Fox River.

water level of the Wolf River this spring.

The water level was lowered too fast, he said, thereby draining spawning beds in the marshes. The effect of this year's loss of Waupaca County, said most-spawn will be felt for several years, he said.

Waddie Nader, a member of the wildlife committee of the New London Fish and Game Club, outlined a program for developing a large waterfowl preserve west of New London.

Harold Steinke, conservation department game manager, said his department already has planned for the New London project and explained how the area could be used to bring back waterfowl by planting feed and controlling the water level in the area. It will be an outstanding project, and more of the same are needed in the basin, he said.

Need Private Aid

Private land developments also can be a great aid in future developments. E. J. Schrage, Appleton, said. Schrage, who has developed over 800 acres in an area north of Shiocton, explained that at one time there was very little game in the area and now a proper habitat has been provided game has returned.

Marlin Fuerst, New London, another member of the committee, suggested that some type of feed be developed for the large areas that cannot support wildlife now. Fuerst also stressed the importance of water in these areas. He suggested planting of trees in agriculture areas where there is food for wildlife but no cover.

Schrage, who has spent considerable time in the creating and developing of Menominee County, told of that county's plight. People of Wisconsin have the wrong impression of the county, he said. Given time, the county can be developed into a 240,000 acre resort area which will have over 8,000 river lots, he commented. This area, if properly managed, will also produce good upland game hunting, he added.

Speaking of river bank erosion, John Nimlos, soil conservationist, said most farmers don't care what happens to the river banks and they must be shown that there is a need for concern for the future of the river.

After obtaining the views of all committee members and agency representatives, four sub-committees were formed to work in separate fields.

Motors, Oils Pace Market

Dow Jones Average Up 1.37 at Noon, Now Reads 710.36

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rebounded in moderately active trading early this afternoon. Steels, motors, oils, and re-tails were among the gainers.

The recovery was irregular and began to lose some of its steam as trading went into the afternoon.

Analysts regarded it as a technical bounce from Wednesday's sell-off, the worst in four months. At the same time, stock chart followers saw the market nearing a level in the averages' at which stout resistance to further decline could be expected.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 271.5 with industrials up .5, rails off .2, and utilities off .1.

Pennsylvania Railroad traded on an early block of 19,400 shares and two blocks of 10,000 shares each later. New York Central also added a fraction but Rock Island slipped fractionally and other leading carriers put on a scrambled performance.

Chrysler rose about a point. Ford and General Motors fractions. Studebaker and American Motors were about unchanged.

United Air Lines dropped 2. Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, and Montgomery Ward all posted fractional gains. Xerox, Polaroid and Moore Ambulance all advanced 2 or 3 points. IBM and Control Data rose a point or so.

U.S. Steel rose 3/4 to 48 1/2 on 9,600 shares. Timken Roller Bearing gained 1/2 at 69 on 10,000 shares.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.37 at 710.36. Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange in quiet trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. Government bonds showed little change in quiet dealings over the counter.

New London Voters Defeat School Bonding

Building Proposal Downed for Second Time by Electors

NEW LONDON — A referendum to bond the New London Unified School District for the construction of a new high school was defeated for the second time Tuesday.

The bond issue for $1.9 million was voted down 603 to 479. The first bond issue of $2.7 million was turned down by the voters in the April 2 general election.

A "no" vote carried five of the six voting precincts of the district. Precinct No. 1 at the Maple Creek Town Hall had a 32 yes vote and 43 no; No. 2 at the Town of Mukwa Town Hall, 64 yes, 67 no; No. 3 at the McKinley School in New London, 26 yes, 57 no; No. 4 at Washington High School, 148 yes, 155 no; No. 5, at Lincoln School, 149 yes, 238 no; and No. 6, at the Caledonia Town Hall, 60 yes, 43 no.

If the referendum had passed, a four-year high school with an enrollment of 1,000 students would have been built. It would have been a one-story building located on the Allen property near Hatten Memorial Park.

No plans for another referendum have been made by the board of education.

CHILTON — The Brown County 4-H senior dairy judging team took top honors in the Northeast Wisconsin district dairy judging contest here Wednesday and the Calumet County team, for the third straight year, had to settle for second place.

Some 200 youths representing the 18 counties that comprise the Northeast district took part in the annual event, according to Charles Nikolai, Calumet Club agent and general chairman of the contest.

A member of the Brown County team, Dale Sabo, was named the top individual judge of the day in senior competition. He was awarded a complete 4-H desk set. Other members of the team were Mike Hultjen, Patricia Hafeman and Bill Hock. The team was coached by Robert Janssen and Tom Hut-jens.

The runner-up Calumet team consisted of Connie Hacker, Reuben Ott Jr., David Ott and Donald Pfister. Individually, Connie Hacker was the third ranked senior judge behind Sabo and Don Bacon, Portage County. Reuben Ott Jr. was the seventh ranked.

The Shawano County junior team was comprised of Susan Ashenbrenner, Keith Morahl, Philip Neitzel and Marilyn Schultz. Members of the Outagamie junior team were Gary VerVoort, Earl Court, Jim Krahn and Donald Krahn.

A tie for individual first place in junior competition developed between Earl Court, Outagamie County, and Terry Bestal, Portage.

'A Little Bit of Ireland' Visiting Waupaca to Observe U. S. Life

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA — If there is a slight hint of Irish brogue emerging from this city of Norwegian-Danish descendants, the headquarters is at the M. C. Freiburger home, 215 Session St., where the family is host to a flower of "Old Erin," Claire Brophy, who arrived from Mooretown, Kilkullen County, Ireland, Tuesday.

Miss Brophy, whose quaint brogue is enough to make even third and fourth generation "wearers of the green" homesick for a country they have never seen, is touring the country under the auspices of the national 4-H Club Foundation as an International Farm Youth Exchange student.

She arrived Tuesday morning and will stay a week. However, her coming has fulfilled the expectations of the Freiburger children, Laurie, 12, and Julie, 8, who decorated the home and even the sidewalks with shamrocks and welcome signs.

Miss Brophy left Ireland May 22 and arrived in New York May 28 aboard the U.S.S. Sylvania. Her traveling companion was an Irish girl from Cork, another I.F.Y.E. student. She said she had a good crossing with the exception of one day which she spent being sea sick.

She spent three weeks at a farm home in Dodge County and will leave here July 2 to spend three weeks in LaCrosse County.

Miss Brophy's stay at Waupaca is rather unusual in the I.F.Y.E. program because she is the first visitor who was given a week's stay in the city.

Mrs. Freiburger said she had little hope of being host to a visiting student when she submitted her application to the state 4-H organization. Miss Brophy said she also was surprised when her application was accepted to come to the United States.

Miss Brophy is a pleasant, easy to meet, 20-year-old young lady who is an excellent conversationalist. She comes from a family in which the girls outnumber the men, 7-2.

She completed one year beyond high school with a major in home economics. She was raised on a 145-acre farm which she says is on flat lands.

Her hobbies are dressmaking and dancing. She prefers the waltzes, fox trots and Irish Reel to current American dances.

Farming trends, she has learned, are about the same in both countries. The larger farms are getting bigger and the smaller farms going out of business.

Don't Raise Corn

American farms, she said, are more mechanized and diversified. Her own farm produces dairy, beef, pork, poultry and fruit in addition to wheat, barley and oats.

She said they do not raise corn. Eating habits are somewhat the same, although she has more milk, puddings in Ireland and fewer vegetables. Irish stew consists of meat, potatoes and onions with carrots optional but preferred by the Brophy family.

Taught Gaelic

Although English is the language of Ireland, she says students are taught Gaelic in schools. Other languages also are taught along with the sciences, arts and vocational courses.

She belongs to the "Macra Na Portage County.

Rebellious Four-Year-Old Gives Mother Much Grief

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Eve Jones: My 4-year-old son refuses to listen to me. I've spanked him but he just gets mad, slaps me and hates me more. He won't stay in our yard or come in for his nap. He plays with dangerous things or makes messes. He sometimes says he's sorry so I know he knows better. Nothing helps and I'm afraid he's going to drive me out of my mind. Mrs. B. C.

I commend a clinic where you can go for personal counseling. Dear Eve Jones: I'm divorced and have a son 14. He lives with his mother who has married for the third time and who has a 6-year-old boy from her second marriage. The two of them come over often and we get along nicely. But their mother is constantly comparing them and making the younger boy feel inferior. It troubles me and I'd appreciate your saying something that she might read and think about.

MR. B. L.

You not only have the right, but the responsibility, to ask her to stop all comparisons, for they hurt both boys. Remember to avoid comments on why she's doing this. She probably was more dissatisfied with her second marriage than with her first, and is taking it out in her attitude toward her younger child. Her motives are none of your business.

'Savage Sam' Full of Fast Action, Fine Acting

Disney Movie Sequel to 'Old Yeller,' About Same Family on Indian Chase

In "Savage Sam," a fast-moving, action-packed story about a blue tick hound dog and a crew of Indian hunters, Walter Disney has created one of his best feature motion pictures. It's as good as his "Old Yeller," and it's a sequel to the former movie. Both pictures are based on best-selling novels by Texas author Fred Gipson.

"Savage Sam," currently playing at the Viking Theater, is named for the hound dog in the movie. Although important to the story, Sam is but one of the crew of relentless Indian trackers

Dan Duryea Expert at Death Scenes

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Duryea, during 20 years of motion picture and television villainy, has lost count of the death scenes he has played.

Dan has met the heavy's inevitable fate by shooting, stabbing, poisoning, electrocution, tumbling, burning, falling, collision and suicide.

His specialty—the kind of role that started him on his long profitable career as a bad guy—has been the sniveling menace. But he also does very nicely as the weak, smart aleck and the trigger-happy coward.

Duryea believes he reached some sort of peak during the past television season when he played a phony psychiatrist in an episode of "The 11th Hour," hypnotizing a woman patient so thoroughly that she killed him by clobbering him with a bottle while sobbing, "I love you, I love you."

Duryea has profited by his special brand of sleek menace. Thus he never complains seriously about type-casting, though he occasionally yearns to do some light comedy.

The big buzz in television circles concerns negotiations in progress among NBC, the Goodson-Todman packaging firm and Arthur Godfrey about hiring the veteran performer as host on a new game show, "Missing Links," to ABC.

who cross the southern plains in search of a band of kidnapping, horse-stealing Apache renegades.

One man, Brian Keith, and two youngsters, Tom Kirk and Kevin Corcoran, hold the center of attention in this family movie. Keith has a special talent for playing the rugged, earthy cowboy Beck Coates, who is the leader of the revenge-hungry Texans.

Tom Kirk, who has appeared in many features and TV shows for Disney, has his biggest hit of them all as the 18-year-old Travis Coates.

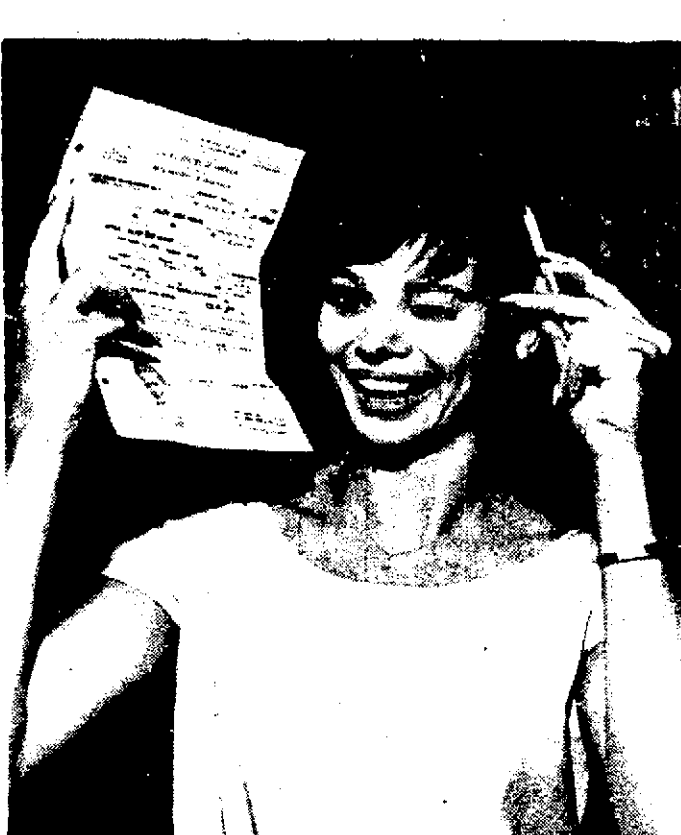

It is young Corcoran, however, who emerges a full-fledged star with his completely believable, at times hilarious, portrayal of the 12-year-old, obstinate Arliss Coates. The freckle-faced youngster gives an inspired performance.

Two other stars who show their deftness at character portrayal are Jeff York of Davy Crockett fame, who recreates the role of blustering pioneer Bud Seary, and blonde Marta Kristen, who plays his drab daughter.

Those who enjoyed "Old Yeller" will certainly like this movie because it's a continuation of the story of the same family. Disney picks up where he left off in "Old Yeller"—he tells the story of the rough-and-ready Coates family and the Texas pioneers who were their neighbors.—L. M.

premiere on the network's morning lineup come September.

It is known that Godfrey wants a television show of his own. And it is also known that NBC wants a big name to add some weight to its morning schedule, now that Godfrey about hiring the veteran performer as host on a new game show, "Missing Links," to ABC.

Whiplash Harms Upper Spine, Neck Muscles

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D. anyone with peptic ulcer? My son

Dear Dr. Molner: I suffered has an ulcer. His doctor told him whiplash and back contusions in he could have beer. — Mrs. C. V.

Should I expect any future ill effects? — Mrs. R. K.

The contusions probably are minor skin and muscle injuries. Whiplash is the result of the rapid forward-and-backward whipping of the head and neck. It isn't a specific injury, but merely implies damage to neck muscles and possibly even the upper spine.

I suspect that the term "whiplash" sometimes is overused. It's a rather vivid, ominous-sounding word.

But if severe damage has been done to the bones, muscles or cartilage, it may take time to correct the condition. Proper treatment may include a special leather collar to hold the bones and muscles in correct position while they heal.

Dear Dr. Molner: The manufacturer of a product for allergies recently stated that if you have more than three or four "colds" a year, you probably have an allergy instead. What is your opinion? I get many colds each year and often have runny nose, drainage in the back of my throat, and occasional sneezes. Would you advise allergy tests? I have taken pills for "allergic rhinitis." That's what my doctor called it. Isn't that the medical term for hay fever? — C. W.

Three or four colds a year is probably about the average number. If you have more than that, either you have more colds, or you have something else — maybe an allergy. I can't quarrel with the statement, but I don't like what it implied — that therefore you should resort to patent medicines.

Yes, I suggest an allergist. If you find that you are allergic to something, staying away from it is the best solution. If you can't do that, you may have success with desensitization injections. Or, if the trouble is mild enough, anti-histamine drugs may be adequate. (You would find out, if you investigated, that the product for allergies is an anti-histamine.)

No, allergic rhinitis is not exactly a synonym for hay fever. Hay fever is an allergy to ragweed and similar pollens. It makes the victim sneeze, makes his eyes and nose water. An allergic rhinitis is similar but not the same. It makes the nose run.

Dear Dr. Molner: I claim that it is harder on the heart to walk downstairs than it is to walk up. My friends say it is the other way around. Who is right? — J. D.

Why, you lose! Muscular exertion is required to lower a weight gradually (your own weight in this case) but not nearly as much as is required to raise it.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can acne be caught by associating with people who have it. My parents think so. — S. A.

No, it is not contagious.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is an occasional bottle of beer harmful to

'Navy' Makes Most of Good Comedy Idea

BY THE TV SCOUT

8:30-9 (Channel 11) — McHale's Navy has a deliciously funny idea, and it makes the most of it. Turns out bumbling, conscientious Ensign Parker (Tim Conway) has an uncle who is a vice admiral, Binghamton (Joe Flynn), in order to butter up Uncle Admiral and maybe gain himself a promotion, makes Parker his aid.

6:30-7 (Channel 2) — JFK Goes "Home" covers President Kennedy's visit to the old sod, Ireland.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — Wide Country repeats a sad little love story which is strangely affecting. Earl Holliman falls for the fair Laura Devon, a lustrous young actress. But she has only a month or so to live.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5) — Dr. Kildare repeats a drama written for Tallulah Bankhead. Gloria Swanson stepped into the Bankheadish role when smart Tallulah wasn't available. Miss Swanson plays a great actress who can't walk. Kildare (Richard Chamberlain) thinks there is something fishy about her case.

9-10 (Channel 2) — The Nurses repeats a story in which Zina Bethune is enmeshed in an impossible romance with William Shatner, a surgeon with a broken marriage and other problems.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — The Bob Hope Moscow Show, seen in 1952 and 1959, is aired again—and it's well worth it. World traveler Hope shows his home movies, with his Kildare repeats added comments.

No Mass Layoffs, Service Cuts Seen From Budget Delay

Available Funds Will Avert Fiscal Chaos if Tax Bill Deadline Passes

BY RICHARD BRAUTIGAM
MADISON (AP)—There will be no mass layoffs of state employees or immediate major cuts in state services if the Legislature fails to pass a budget-tax bill by Monday, the start of a new biennium.

That was determined today in a survey of major state agencies.

The Monday deadline is being insisted upon by Gov. John W. Reynolds. Commissioner Howard Koop of the State Department of Administration, and Senate leaders working for passage of a compromise budget-tax proposal.

State Resource Bill Passed Second Time

Move Accomplished Over Bitter Protest of Madison Democrat

MADISON (AP)—Assembly Republicans rallied behind Paul Alfonsi, R - Minocqua today and passed the bill that would change Wisconsin's $50 million outdoor resources development program for 1963-65.

It was the second time that the measure has been passed by the Assembly and this was accomplished over the bitter objections of Norman Anderson, D-Madison.

Anderson protested the changes the bill makes in the program's administration and said the alteration would allow the conservation commission to divert funds from land acquisition to operating expenses.

Anderson failed in a motion to return the bill to Alfonsi's Conservation Committee. Alfonsi said he had delayed action on the measure for two weeks and it was now time to pass the bill.

Set to End in '64

"If this measure is killed or the governor vetoes it," Alfonsi said, "this program will end on June 30, 1964."

Anderson won a victory Wednesday when, with Alfonsi absent, the Assembly voted to take another look at the program the state established in 1961 under guidance of former Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

The new action continues annual appropriations for the program but it eliminates a priority list of projects, abolishes the recreation committee of state agencies which oversees the program and places administration in the hands of the conservation agency.

A 49-39 vote killed a bill that would have allowed school boards to contract with counties, towns or cities for construction and maintenance of school roads and parking areas.

Also killed was a bill that would have required counties to seek competitive bids on all county road projects.

The Assembly passed and sent to the governor a bill creating a commission to direct the state's participation in the 1964 New York World's Fair. The governor would be honorary chairman of the group and contributions to finance an exhibition would be deductible from the state income tax.

Reynolds vetoed an earlier bill that named Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, a Republican, as chairman.

In other actions the Assembly killed two measures requested by Frank Zeidler, director of resource development. One would have created a staff in the department to assist localities in planning urban renewal projects. The other would have allowed municipalities to combine mass transit systems with parking facilities.

Kentucky Plans to Continue Bible Use Until Told to Stop

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky teachers may continue to read the Bible in school until somebody tells them to stop.

The State Board of Education took this position in reference to the Supreme Court ruling that required worship is unconstitutional.

To emphasize its point, the board opened Wednesday's meeting with the customary Bible reading, brief sermon and prayer.

If the procedure is illegal, "I move we violate the Constitution," said board member and former Gov. Keen Johnson said.

Italy's Communist Party Tenders Pope Paul Formal Offer of Peace

BY GEORGE WELLER
Chicago Daily News Service

ROME—As President Kennedy's visit to Pope Paul VI drew near, Italy's Communist party suddenly offered the new pontiff what amounted to a formal, public peace offer.

Paul was tendered a delayed, cautious but hearty welcome as a likely promoter of Pope John's open door policy toward the Kremlin.

Mario Alicata, an editor of the Communist daily, Unita, wrote in the policy column of the front page "there has been evident from the beginning an effort by Paul VI to adapt the Roman church's traditions to the movement for rebirth started by John XXIII."

The article by the 45-year-old Calabrian deputy broke a period of uncertainty during which the Communist press has given much less attention to Paul, who can the church fulfill its universal springs from a family of middle class Catholic politicians, than to the farm-born Pope John.

Party Line

The party line appears to have been generated as a precaution against "isolation," which is contrary to Communist international tactics, being caused by Mr. Kennedy's duel with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev across the Berlin wall and his impending arrival in the Vatican as the first state visitor of the new Pope.

Referring to Paul's middle class upbringing, Alicata said: "We are still far from the courtly, aristocratic precedents made by John XXIII. A diplomat has replaced the agitator we had."

But perhaps this is a diplomat so alert and able as to be able to keep in mind that only through the encyclical "Peace on Earth"

Solon Finds Shelter Space In Washington, D.C. Lacking

BY EDMOND LEBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP)—When Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain was "almost knocked out of my office" two years ago by the blast of a nearby siren, he was moved to ask a question.

Today he is a little closer to the answer, but he still doesn't have it.

The question that occurred to the Michigan Republican, he said, was whether anybody in his office or anywhere around the Capitol knew what he, his fellow members and the other Capitol inhabitants were supposed to do if a real attack occurred.

After a quick and negative check among his own employees, Chamberlain wrote on May 17, 1961, to the then director of civil defense.

He got in reply five pamphlets and the information that a copy of his letter had been sent to J. George Stewart, architect of the Capitol with additional duties as its civil defense coordinator.

Chamberlain was told Stewart would soon be in touch with him.

Tells Story

He told the story Wednesday with Stewart in the witness chair of an armed services subcommittee on which Chamberlain serves. It is looking into the civil defense program nationwide.

Stewart said he couldn't remember ever getting a copy of the letter.

A survey of the Capitol and its accessory buildings, Stewart said, disclosed existing shelter space for 35,617 persons with necessary supplies—or some 163,000 if the need for supplies were ignored.

But he said he did not feel he had authority to sign agreements with civil defense authorities for marking and stocking the tunnels, basements and other spaces without the permission of the speaker of the House and the Senate Rules Committee.

Speaker John W. McCormack, he said, had given permission and remarked the Capitol should set an example, but the matter was still pending with the Senate committee.

Woman Wins Second Divorce in 6 Months

LONDON (AP)—The Countess of Coventry, 28, daughter of an American meat-packing millionaire, won her second divorce in six months Wednesday.

The former Mimi Medard of St. Louis married the Earl of Coventry in Tangier in 1955. They married again in London in 1957 because they suspected the first marriage might not be valid.

Last December she petitioned for divorce, charging her husband with adultery. The judge dissolved only the second marriage.

Then it was discovered that the first marriage was valid. The countess asked the judge to end that one too. The court agreed.

Dieting, Exercise Best Method For Losing Those Extra Pounds

Doctor Says Everyone Who's Fat Isn't Necessarily a Big Eater

BY DR. CHARLOTTE M. YOUNG
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Not everyone who is fat is necessarily an enormous eater. Nor should all who are obese try to reduce.

It is true that obesity is the primary nutrition problem in this land of plenty. It is also a fact that the only reason anyone is too fat is that the energy he takes in as food and drink is greater than that which he puts out in activity and in keeping his body alive. The extra is stored as body fat. No one violates this law.

But in modern life both factors are at fault: too little energy is spent in activity; too many calories are taken as food and drink for the amount of activity. The conveniences of modern living mean we use less and less energy. Machines on the job, in the home and in our spectator type of recreation encourage increasing laziness.

No Physical Activity

Many fat people don't eat great quantities of food. Their obesity stems largely from a shortage of physical activity.

In a highly competitive society of food surpluses, we are urged to buy more and more food. And with money to buy, it is difficult to resist.

Food and drink are the basis of most hospitality.

And modern times are anxious times for many. Since there is little opportunity physically to work out their anxieties, food and drink become an easy way to relieve tensions.

Thus, modern living makes it easy to become fat.

What can be done about the obesity problem? To date, results of treatment have been disappointing. Some individuals probably should never try to reduce by dieting. They seldom are able to stick to a diet. For these people overeating may be the best way they find to adjust to their life circumstances. A physician who knows his patients well can pick them out.

No Cure All

But, for persons who are stable emotionally and really wish to reduce, weight loss is quite possible. On their doctor's recommendation they may either cut the energy they take in as food and drink, or increase the energy they put out in activity, or probably a little of both. Body fat is burned. There is no other way, no magic "cure all."

Dieting will be easier if you have another person, such as your physician to report to regularly. It's too easy to rationalize to yourself! Frequent contacts with someone who faces the scale with you, who listens to your problems and helps with their solution, who encourages, who doesn't threaten, scold or judge you, help make your efforts a success.

So does a well-balanced diet not too restricted in calories, which keeps you from being too hungry during a slow but steady weight loss. Slow and easy does it. Weight control is a life-time proposition.

The only real solution to our No. 1 nutrition problem is prevention.

Says Kenosha Woman Not Legally Sane

KENOSHA (AP)—A psychiatrist who had been treating Mrs. Helen Haukedahl testified at her first degree murder trial Wednesday that she was not legally sane several hours after the shooting of a police department stenographer.

The 46-year-old Mrs. Haukedahl, the estranged wife of Kenosha's former police chief, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity in the slaying April 1 of Mrs. Dorothy Bitault, a 46-year-old widow.

Dr. George R. Weber said he examined Mrs. Haukedahl in her hospital room for several hours after the slaying and she did not appear to know the difference between right and wrong at that time. He said that in subsequent visits she appeared to show little improvement.

He said that during the initial questioning Mrs. Haukedahl had certain areas of amnesia and had difficulty answering direct questions. Weber was the second defense witness called, taking the stand after Mrs. Haukedahl's testimony was interrupted.

She sobbed as she told the jury she still loved her husband.

"He hurt me, but I love him," she said. "I have always loved him and I am still very much in love with him."

Haukedahl, a former football player at the University of Wisconsin, had been in the courtroom since the trial started Monday. But he left during a portion of his wife's testimony, Wednesday. He told a newsman, "This certainly makes me look like a beast."

Road Sign Forgot That Temperature Read 99

SEACACUS, N.J. (AP)—Travelers driving along the New Jersey Turnpike in 99-degree weather had visions of relief Wednesday when an electric sign cautioned: "Drive Slow—Ice and Snow."

State police explained that somehow a radio signal transmitted to control turnpike caution signs had gone haywire. A button was pushed and the sign blinked out.

Woman Mayor Ends Lima's Girlie Shows

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Lima's new woman mayor, Anita Fernandini de Naranjo, has outlawed the strip tease and girlie shows that have flourished for years in the city's night clubs.

Her decree said shows that feature nudes or scantily clad women are "contrary to good morals."

Psychiatric Service Provided by Phone

Program Aids Persons Trying to Cope With Dangerous Pressures

BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I thought I was all right, but when I now I think my mind is going, hang up I'm scared, I don't know but I can't stand to be called what is happening to me" — "crazy. Please, doctor —"

He sought to quiet her, learned that she had been in a hospital must talk to the doctor right for the mentally ill, that she was under the care of a psychiatrist, who was inaccessible at that late evening hour. Seemingly calmed, the man on the other end of the telephone line said he was the doctor and asked how he could help, groping, entreating: "When I talk I thought I was all right, but to you I feel all right, but when I now I think my mind is going, hang up I'm scared, I don't know but I can't stand to be called what is happening to me" — "crazy. Please, doctor —"

Eight times within an hour she called and each time she seemed to be reassured. But before the night was over she was taken to a hospital and from there the doctor was called again.

This time he was able to find out what kind of medication she had been getting. He located her druggist, found the girl's mother, now home from her work, and had her pick up the prescription and take it to her daughter.

The medicine sufficiently relaxed the girl so that she could await the ministrations of her own psychiatrist the next day.

That is typical of help which is being extended to the mentally sick, or an emergency basis, all around the clock, by a rare kind of psychiatric service provided by the Philadelphia Mental Health Clinic.

Two months old, and regarded as a pilot program for the entire country, the emergency service has helped scores of men and women trying to cope with potentially explosive situations.

Dial-for-Help

Essentially, it is a dial-for-help service, with a fully trained psychiatrist always available. Many persons, of course, do not telephone, but go straight to the clinic.

Those helped fall into four major categories—those who attempt or threaten suicide; those who suffer from an extreme anxiety neurosis, those behaving violently because they are undergoing acute psychic experiences, and those in the last throes of depression.

Dr. Cecil Harris, director of the clinic, and Edward K. Parnes, its executive director, emphasize that the new 24-hour service is in no way meant to take the place of usual psychiatric and psychological services.

The emergency treatment is restricted to situations becoming suddenly acute, or approximately so.

Prompt Care Cases

Parnes and Dr. Edythe Verner, director of the emergency program, explained that in cases where prompt institutional care is required "the psychiatrist arranges for it with the least possible emotional burden on the family."

"The emergency program is not aimed at curing anybody on the spot," Parnes said, "but to see these people through their trouble until they can get more extended treatment."

"Psychiatrists' office hours are usually 9 to 5, but people don't crack up only during those hours, and we had a great lack of facilities on the long stretch between 5 p.m. and 9 a.m."

"Consequently, it seemed obvious to us that something was sorely lacking in the mental health field. This emergency psychiatric service would seem to meet the need. Already we have had inquiries from other places, and it is our hope that many cities and private facilities and in time the federal government, will share in the program."

The clinic, which is housed in anything but spacious quarters in one of the older sections of mid-city Philadelphia, is a private, non-profit organization providing research, diagnostic and treatment services. Some members of the staff, engaged in their own private practice, serve free.

Fees for the emergency service are charged only when a psychiatrist makes an outside call, and not always then, since many of those helped can't pay. These fees run from $10 to $15; less has been accepted.

Appleton Woman Assigned As Writer for Lutheran Church

Mrs. Roger Lillge, 549 N. Clark St., Appleton, commissioned as writer for the Lutheran Church in America, has been assigned to write 13 lessons under the title, "Growing As Christians," for the kindergarten and primary departments of the Sunday schools of the newly-merged church.

Mrs. Lillge has previously written the Parents and Teachers manual for the Family Education Series, which will be field-tested in 1964 as part of the long-range program of parish education in the Lutheran Church in America. Mrs. Lillge is a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Appleton, and has taught in its Sunday church and vacation church schools for a number of years. She also has been active in the development and promotion of programs for the kindergarten and elementary departments. Her experience in the schools has included leadership of the special education class, which is designed for youngsters with learning problems.

The lesson series on which Mrs. Lillge will be working is divided into four units. First is "The Meaning of Christian Growth," which discusses Christ as the foundation of Christian growth and man's continuing response through the working of the Holy Spirit. The second, "How Christians Grow," explores Christian growth through experiences of conflict, fellowship, study, worship and service. The third is "The Hindrance to Christian Growth," which deals with personal and cultural hindrances to growth. The fourth is "The Areas of Christian Growth," representing faith, self-discipline, patience and love.

A conference for the newly-commissioned writers is being scheduled for later this summer in Minneapolis, Minn. Dr. Robert Roth, professor of systematic theology at Northwestern Lutheran Seminary, Minneapolis, will be one of the resource persons. Mrs. Lillge plans to attend.

Assembly Kills Bill Calling for Ban on Amateur Rocket Shots

MADISON (AP) — The State Assembly late Tuesday killed a proposal that would have prohibited the firing of homemade rockets or missiles without adult supervision.

The action was a victory for two 10-year-old Madison boys who wanted legislators at a public hearing last month that "if this bill passes it'll probably knock out rocketry in Madison and Wisconsin."

Assemblyman Adrian Manders, D-Milwaukee, an author of the bill, told his colleagues that experiments by youngsters "have become a dangerous thing and this bill would save some eyes and limbs."

But opponents held with the Madison youths that the bill was "ridiculous" and William Steig-scholarship is valued at $190 and covers the two-week resident school for credit union personnel at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, July 14-28.

Credit Unions Seat Officers

Admits 2 Members
At Annual Meeting

Officers of the Outagamie Chapter of Credit Unions were installed recently at an organizational meeting.

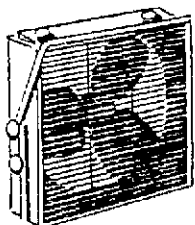

New officers are Clarice Stake, president, Peter Luthen, vice president, William Gast, secretary, and Henry Rammer, treasurer. Reginald Reinke was reelected chapter CUNA mutual policyholder representative.

The Red Fox credit union was host to the annual meeting which closed the current chapter season. Thirty credit unions were represented by 170 delegates and guests.

Two new credit unions, La Tor and Sal Cent of New Holstein, were voted into chapter membership.

Henry Rammer was named to receive the 1962 CUNA school chapter scholarship. George Grube received the first-year CUNA school scholarship awarded on the state level by the Wisconsin Credit Union League. Each scholarship is valued at $190 and covers the two-week resident school for credit union personnel at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, July 14-28.

Paul VI Pledges to Follow Path of Progress Pioneered by Pope John

BY JAMES M. LONG

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has pledged himself to follow the path of progress pioneered by Pope John XXIII.

He embarks with administrative experience and important pastoral preparation given him by the more conservative Pope Pius XII.

Pius became Pope after a career in the Vatican Secretariat of State. But he understood the value of the rich human contacts and deep personal satisfactions of the pastoral experience, which he never had.

Pius first gave Giovanni Battista Montini a broad outlook on the world from the Vatican's Office of Secretary of State and then sent him to Milan as archbishop in Italy's industrial Red Belt.

It cost Pope Pius his right hand

Trained in administration and given vital pastoral duties by Pope Pius XII, the new Pontiff has pledged himself to follow the path of progress charted by Pope John XXIII. In this second of a series, AP Correspondent James M. Long, who has known Paul VI for years, reports on the Pontiff's work as a Vatican diplomat and pastor.

man in church administration. But it gave Archbishop Montini eight rich years of pastoral experience that rounded out his preparation to become Pope Paul VI.

Refused Red Hat

There were paradoxes in his career. One was that he declined the red hat of cardinal just 10 years before he was elected Pope.

But there was the underlying consistency of loyalty, in his devoted service to Pope Pius, and his dedicated support of Pope John's program of progress.

When he moved into the papal apartment of the Apostolic Palace after election last Friday it was almost like coming home. Pope Paul's office and home had been in the Vatican Secretariat of State since 1924, soon after his return from his first diplomatic assignment as secretary to the apostolic nuncio in Warsaw. He was 27.

His rise was steady. In 1937 he became substitute secretary of state. Pope Pius XII promoted him in 1952 to pro-secretary of state, in which he was the Pope's right-hand man in church administration.

In the consistory of 1953, Pope Pius announced he had asked Archbishop Montini to accept the red hat of cardinal. The Pope said Montini refused "from his high sense of duty," preferring to serve the Pope in his office in the Secretariat of State.

Deeply Moved

It was a sacrifice of princelyhood rarely disclosed in the modern history of the Roman Catholic Church. Pius obviously was deeply moved. A year later, in 1954, the Pope sent Montini north to Milan, as archbishop of the most important diocese in Italy outside Rome.

History may record it as an act of destiny. At the time Archbishop Montini wept and said sorrowfully "Today I have become an orphan."

It was a token of his love of Pope Pius, as for a father.

Yet on Epiphany Day of January 1955, when the new archbishop of Milan drove into his diocese, for the first time a pastor, he had dedicated himself to his new duties.

He stepped from his car in sleet and rain. And before the Milanese who braved the bitter weather to greet him, he knelt and kissed the ground of his native North Italy.

He rose and faced them — the people of the bustling, prospering, industrial and Communist-leaning area.

He had come to meet his challenge there in the Red Belt. His first words were those of prayer, of affection of hope.

"Pray," he urged them.

"Pray as I pray—that the vibration of machinery shall be priests from all over Italy. He come as music, and the fumes of the smokestacks shall become as suburbs of the city to carry the message of the church into the strongholds of Communism.

Then, with the intensity with which he always plunged into new endeavor, he went to work to make it so.

He rounded up nearly 1,000 prisoners, just as Pope John

Blue Overalls

They were lined up in the workshops there in oil-stained blue overalls. Many eyed the slight, ascetic-looking archbishop defiantly.

He hit out straight from the shoulder: "Let it not be said that religion is an opium which seeks to dull in men their drive for progress and better life. To the contrary, religion is the light, the glory and the force behind this hope."

That was one of the first of many of his dramatic speeches on social justice. Once he faced the Red Belt's workmen and told them: "The first to abandon Christian teachings were not you, the workers, but the great industrial bosses of the past century."

"The two great aspirations of workers — security of their jobs and bread and the move toward gradual association in the profits and direction of their industry — must be supported."

He did not stop at visiting the workers in their plants and at their assembly lines. He went to their wives and their children in humble homes.

No Promises

He took along a notebook. He was accompanied by two priests. He asked questions and made no promises. But a few days after his visit, poor families found that a doctor showed up for their sick baby. Or a call came saying a job had been found for the unemployed husband.

When he came back to Rome he had eight years of the close personal pastoral relations that a Pope would need in the new age of man.

Even a Young Mother Can Earn a Modest Income

BY MARY FEELEY

Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

I'd like to work but have a three-month-old baby and do not want to get a job outside the home. Before being married I worked in an office. If you have any information that might be helpful, please advise me.

Mrs. J. W., New Haven, Ind.

Dear Mrs. W.:

You might find it worth while to write to the Small Business Administration, Washington 25, D. C., for background material. This maker who operates a telephone office has combined in one public-answering service from her home crafts and Home Products for "Profit" and "Home Businesses."

A copy may be had free of charge.

You might also contact business and civic leaders in your community, stating the type of work you formerly did. Perhaps some phase of it may be useful in obtaining part time work you could handle at home.

Telephone contacting, Dear Mrs. E.:

An exchange is the same as a sale as far as Uncle Sam is concerned. So capital gains or losses for stock, would either party have to pay income tax?

offices most of the time or away from home when they're expecting calls. Others earn a modest income by baby-sitting in their own homes for mothers who bring and pick up their children.

I hope some idea mentioned here will spark one that pays off for you.

Dear Miss Feeley:

A group of us were discussing better and exchange, and the question came up: if a person had a home and wanted to exchange it for stock, would either party have to pay income tax?

Chevrolet's got four different kinds of them

Which way do you want a new kick out of going places?

Everything about our JET-SMOOTH CHEVROLET says luxury car—except the price sticker. Roomy, with Body by Fisher craftsmanship, rich interiors and a big deep-well trunk. Graceful to look at and restful to ride in (over 700 insulating and cushioning points soak up vibration and noise), it gives you a choice of smooth-responding engines with up to 425 hp.*

CHEVY II is a thrifty one, but you could never tell by its stylish looks or the way its sprightly six goes. Lots of upkeep savers including a longer lasting exhaust system and a Delcotron generator that helps your battery lead a long and active life. CORVAIR, with its rear-engine traction, spunky six and sensitive steering, is the kind of sports-minded car that'll have you seeking out meandering country roads.

And CORVETTE, America's only full-fledged sports car, is our all-out map shrinker.

Quite a difference, isn't there? But lots in common, too—like self-adjusting brakes, Chevrolet dependability—and the fine, fat Trade 'N' Travel deals your dealer's got to help you spring into summer in a new Chevrolet.

Luscious Spareribs, basted and topped with a lively barbecue sauce, makes a glamorous meat dish for an outdoor dinner. Here, the barbecued spareribs are cut into serving sections and speared with an attractive skewer. Together with a crisp mixed salad and chunks of crusty French bread, they make a delightful al fresco meal.

A Rival to Steak as the meat to barbecue is the tail of the South African rock lobster. This is good eating with great ease and lobster tails make a dramatic food with their bright red shells and snow-white meat. These charcoal broiled lobster tails are served with a delectable sauce that's also used for basting the meat during cooking.

Outdoor Foods for July 4 Weekend

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

The July 4 picnic is an American tradition that goes way back to Revolutionary days and those first community picnics held in the commons and woods of every city, village and hamlet to celebrate Independence Day and honor the red, white and blue of Old Glory.

In those "good old days" the picnic was a community affair. Proud was the city or village that had an old cannon on hand to boom forth the signal that the day-long event was about to start. Dressed in their Sunday best, families shared buggy or wagon with innumerable baskets and bottles of good things to eat and drink as they made their way to the picnic grounds.

Besides lively games for the children and fireworks at night, these picnics always included a band concert and a patriotic oration by the town's most gifted speaker. The speaker's platform was always evident, generously draped with bunting, to form the center of the picnic site.

Although this old-time community celebration has Favorite Picnic Foods such as grilled franks, creamy salads and roasting ears are easy to make with the recipes today. The ears of corn are roasted in foil after being buttered with special mixtures. The coleslaw or tossed salad has a wonderful sour cream dressing and the Wieners are cooked under the name of Fat Rascals, filled with slender fingers of Cheddar cheese and wrapped in bacon slices.

This Sumptuous Array of picnic foods includes Herbed Fried Chicken, shown in the basket, a hearty salad, a plate of deviled eggs and a Spice Picnic Cake that's a wonderful traveler. The salad combines elbow Macaroni, diced cooked meat and kidney beans with a delicious dressing. The spicy cake, made with a broiled Pineapple-Coconut Topping, will prove a winner for many other occasions besides a picnic.

New Freeze-Dried Foods Prove Boon To Camping Fans

Freeze-dried foods offer the camper some easy-to-prepare meals, according to Outdoor Editor Jay Reed, who tried a few on a recent fishing trip in Canada.

Freeze-dried camp packs, dip mixes and main course meals, including potatoes and ham au gratin, shrimp creole and chili with beans and many others are available in the Fox Cities.

rapher Edward Deschler tried one of the camp packs that contained a meal for two — four boneless pork chops, sliced potatoes and applesauce. The food comes in aluminum foil packets and each packet has complete, clear instructions for preparation, Reed says.

"By following the instructions," Reed explains, all parts of the meal are done at the same time and everything can be cooked in one skillet, an important factor for the wilderness camper. He says that water is added to the freeze-fried pork chops, then they are cooked as usual and the meat looks and tastes like fresh chops. The potatoes were a disappointment because they were a little leathery, but were edible.

UW Experiments
Kenneth Weckel, University of Wisconsin dairy specialist working in this food field, says that other freeze-dried foods are being developed. He points out that products in the form of seasonings, instant coffee and fruit powders soon will be available.

Weckel, who is doing research on the application of freeze-drying to vegetables, says that it is the high temperature used in regular drying processes that causes tissue breakdown and color change while in freeze-drying, evaporation needs only low temperatures and the aid of a vacuum.

Mushrooms, shrimp and chicken products are other foods that are successfully freeze-dried and are sold in some supermarkets. Freeze-drying is limited to a few products because of the high processing costs. By experimenting, this problem is slowly being solved.

Vegetable varieties are being tested for their color and flavor retention, their qualities when water is added and their storage qualities. One use for freeze-dried vegetables is in dried soups, Weckel says.

Even though freeze-dried products can't be kept indefinitely, they do keep well for long periods and are convenient to store and transport. They're used mainly for sporting, military and institutional purposes.

Serving Asparagus

Arrange hot cooked fresh asparagus stalks on a serving plate and pour over the accompanying sauce, but not on the tips.

Beating the Heat

When the heat and humidity are getting you down, you'll feel better if you maintain a well-balanced diet. Don't try to get by on skimpy, low protein meals during the summer. When the temperature soars, none of us feel like eating as much as usual, but it's the choice of foods which is important, not the quantity. Franks, hamburgers, cold cuts and quick cooking steaks will help keep one feeling fresh and fit throughout the summer months.

Sheinwola Defensive Signals Deceive

The trouble with opponents is that they're looking out for themselves. There is wickedness in their hearts and the truth is not in them. These are the facts of life and you mustn't cry if an opponent deceives you with his defensive signals.

Declarer won the first trick in dummy with the king of diamonds led a trump to the king and another trump back to dummy's queen.

South saw that it might be troublesome to get out of dummy but decided to cross that bridge when he came to it. He led an other trump, and West took the ace.

West put dummy in with a spade and now South had come to his hidge. How was he to get to his hand to draw West's last trump?

Choice of Entries

South could try to get to his hand with the ace of diamonds but there was the danger that West had led a singleton to begin with. The alternative was to cash two high clubs and ruff the third club.

Declarer thought he might try a high club or two just to see what fell, but West dropped the eight of clubs on the ace and the deuce of clubs next. This looked like a doubleton, so South trustingly led a diamond from dummy rather than risk an over-ruff on a third round of clubs.

West ruffed the ace of diamonds defeating the contract. Nobody snickered but the silence was rather oppressive.

I guessed wrong. South apologized but his excuse was lame. There was no need to guess at all.

Before leading the third round of trumps, South should cash dummy's top spades and two of the top clubs. Then he can lead the trump to give West the ace. No return by West can lock declarer in the dummy. If West leads a diamond South wins with the ace. If West leads a club South ruffs. If West leads a spade South ruffs.

Daily Question

Partner opens with two diamonds (forcing to game) and the next player passes. You hold S 10 9 6 5 H 5 D 10 8 7 C 9 7 6 4 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two notrump, denying a strength. Don't dream of passing your partner is relying on you to keep him afloat and you will have an irritated partner if you let him down.

It's perfectly all right to hard cook a dozen eggs at a time and refrigerate some of them for use over several consecutive days.

Miss Butterfield Tell Troth of Hayward Girl, T. S. Baurain

Mr and Mrs Roscoe L. Butterfield, Hayward, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joyce to Thomas S. Baurain, formerly of Appleton, son of the late Mr and Mrs Orville Baurain.

Miss Butterfield is a graduate of Wisconsin State College, La Crosse, where she was affiliated with Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She will assume a teaching position at Madison Junior High School in the fall. Her fiance is a graduate of Lawrence College where he was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. He has been employed by Dow Corning Corp., Midland, Mich., as a research chemist and will attend graduate school at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich.

A June wedding is planned.

Safety Tips On Foods For Picnics

The American Medical Association offers sound advice about picnic foods because now and then picnics end in tragedy — the tragedy of food poisoning.

Most foods spoil quickly in hot weather and away from refrigeration the association cautions. If a few staphylococci bacteria are present they need only a few hours of time and a warm temperature to grow rapidly. Some foods can become poisoned in as little as five or six hours on a hot day.

There are easy and simple ways to avoid food poisoning on a picnic. One valuable item is a good portable ice box. Chill the foods thoroughly in the refrigerator at home. Use plenty of ice. Make sure the lid is tight. This will keep your perishables fresh.

Other Suggestions

Take along the sandwich ingredients in the original wrappings and containers and make up your picnic lunch on the spot just before mealtime.

Take the ham in a sealed can and open it at mealtime. The same applies to mayonnaise. Keep the boiled eggs and potatoes separate in the ice box. Mix potato salad at the last minute.

Stick to canned foods and seal ed jars and bottles that can be opened just before serving. Be careful about pies and cream-filled bakery items. They spoil very fast on a hot day. Fresh fruits keep better and will make good desserts.

It's actually not very difficult to insure safe picnic meals. Just follow your home practice of refrigerating those foods that need

Pi Beta Phi Given National Recognition

The Lawrence College Chapter of Pi Beta Phi has been named winner of the National Fraternity Education award for 1963. The announcement was made at the sorority's conference of national officers held recently in Gatlinburg, Tenn.

The award is based on five phases of chapter work: pledge training, fraternity education, officer training, active alumnae relations and fraternity study end examinations. The selection is made by the sorority's Grand Council. A large silver bowl will be presented to the Lawrence Chapter when school resumes in September.

Mrs. Andrew Coonen, Little Chute, alumnae province president, has just returned from the biennial conference held at the sorority's national philanthropy, Pi Beta Phi Settlement School.

A Perfect Tote-Along complement for grilled beefburgers is a blue cheese spread which can be made ahead of time and kept in the refrigerator. The spread goes on the buns and the grilled burgers are popped in between the spread for some excellent eating. The beefburgers above are grilled on a do-it-yourself hibachi made from a large clay flower pot that's been lined with aluminum foil and filled half full with coarse gravel. The charcoal goes over the gravel and should come to within three inches of the top of the pot. A round cake rack serves as the grill.

1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice

Spicy Picnic Cake

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup hot milk
Pineapple-Coconut Topping

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Set aside to use later.

Beat eggs until light and lemon colored. Gradually beat in sugar. Add shortening to hot milk; stir until shortening melts. Add flour mixture and hot milk mixture alternately to egg-sugar mixture, starting and ending with flour mixture. Turn into well greased and lightly floured 8 inch square pan. Bake in preheated, 350-degree oven for 40 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center of cake comes out clean. Remove from oven and spread with Pineapple-Coconut Topping. Place under broiler until topping is brown and bubbly, but watch closely to prevent burning.

Pineapple-Coconut Topping
3 tablespoons butter, melted

Combine butter, lemon juice and Angostura bitters. Brush flesh side of lobsters liberally with butter sauce, then turn flesh side down over coals and grill about five minutes longer until meat is opaque and tender when tried with fork. Serve hot with remaining sauce.

Fat Rascals

Frankfurters
Prepared mustard
Cheddar cheese cut in finger strips
Bacon strips
Frankfurter buns, buttered
Cut a slit lengthwise in each frank, but don't cut completely through. Spread each slit with mustard. Stuff with a thin finger of cheese. Wrap each frank with a strip of bacon spiral fashion, secure bacon with toothpick. Grill over charcoal or other campfire, turning, until bacon is crisp and brown. Serve between frankfurter buns which have been partially split, buttered and toasted over the coals.

Buttered Roasted Corn
4 ears fresh sweet corn
1/2 cup butter, softened
1 teaspoon salt
Aluminum foil

Husk and desilk corn. Mix butter and salt together and coat ears of corn. Securely wrap each ear of corn in heavy duty aluminum foil, using 12 by 9-inch pieces of foil for each ear. Grill on coals from 15 to 25 minutes.

Butter Variations
For variation, the butter may be mixed with other seasonings. Here are several to be mixed with one-half cup softened butter with which to coat the corn: two teaspoons garlic salt and two teaspoons celery salt, two tablespoons seasoned salt, two tablespoons chili sauce and one teaspoon salt, four tablespoons onion salt and one tablespoon prepared mustard; three-fourths teaspoon sage and one teaspoon salt.

Sour Cream Dressing For Salads

1/2 cup sour cream
Pepper, freshly ground, preferable
1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cider vinegar
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
Stir all ingredients in mixing bowl until well blended. This is delicious with sliced cucumbers, onions, tomatoes, tossed salad or coleslaw.

Herbed Fried Chicken

2 1/2 pounds ready-to-cook chicken
3 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 teaspoon ground thyme
1/2 cup pancake mix
1/2 cup corn meal
1/3 cup shortening
Cut chicken into serving-size pieces. Rub two teaspoons salt into the chicken and let stand overnight in refrigerator. Combine remaining teaspoon salt, pepper, thyme, pancake mix and corn meal in paper or plastic bag. Shake well, then add chicken pieces and shake again to coat well with mixture.

Heat half the shortening in 10-inch skillet. Add chicken, cook over moderate heat until chicken is brown and crisp, turning to brown on both sides. Add remaining shortening as needed. Remove chicken from pan, drain on paper towels. Serve hot or cold.

Miss Wisconsin Contestants Begin Whirl

OSHKOSH—The whirl of competition for the Miss Wisconsin title began Wednesday afternoon as contestants arrived at the Raulf Hotel to register. The girls and their chaperones were then shown their accommodations at Bradford Hall on the OSC Campus.

Afternoon and evening activity included a boat trip and cook-out at the Power Boat Club. The young women then got down to serious pageant business and held their first rehearsal.

Competition for the title will begin Friday evening when half the judging will be done in evening gown, swimsuit and talent. The contest will be completed Saturday evening when Miss Joan Engh gives her crown to a new Miss Wisconsin.

The Young Women who will vie for the Miss Wisconsin title and a chance to compete at the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City received instructions and held their first rehearsal Wednesday evening. Almost every minute of the girls' time, from the moment they arrived at Oshkosh until a new Miss Wisconsin is chosen, has been planned by the pageant committee.

So It Begins...

Wonderful World of Miss Wisconsin

BY JUDY RUSSELL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — "Relax and let everything take care of itself. It's up to you to derive from the pageant what you want to get out of it." This was the advice that Miss Joan Mary Engh, Miss Wisconsin of 1962, gave 21 young hopefuls who came into Oshkosh Wednesday as candidates for the 1963 Miss Wisconsin crown.

One of the girls will be crowned Saturday evening as Badgerland's representative in the Miss America pageant. Competition will be held Friday and Saturday at the new Oshkosh Civic Auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m.

Contestants were welcomed into the host city at a press conference, rules and regulations meeting, boat ride and cookout. Wednesday evening they rehearsed two hours at the auditorium, the first of many rehearsals.

Miss Engh, La Crosse, told the girls that although they worked very hard there can only be one winner. "Even if you lose, it can be the beginning," she declared. "You can see what you really are in your own eyes. You can learn more about yourself in these few days than most people learn in a lifetime." She concluded by reminding the contestants that it's nice to be important, but so much more important to be nice.

Given the Rules
Jack Erkkila, pageant director, outlined the rules and regulations which the girls must follow. Three more important ones are that contestants may not have male visitors in their rooms at Radford Hall at the Wisconsin State College campus where they are staying — their own families included; they must be prompt in appearing at all activities and chaperones must be with them at all times.

The girls were assigned two chaperones, one from the city they represent and one from the state. State chaperones are with the girls on stage at all times during the pageant preparations.

After the rules and regulations session the girls returned to the dormitory for a change of clothes and took part in a boat ride and cookout. Twelve boats were available to the contestants. The get-acquainted party was held at the Power Boat Club.

Today after breakfast in the cafeteria, the contestants returned to the auditorium for more rehearsals until 12:30 p.m. After a break for lunch they continued rehearsals until 5 p.m.

Tonight the girls and their chaperones will be guests at the Miss Wisconsin banquet from 7 to 10 p.m.

On Friday the girls will have breakfast with the judges at the La Crosse, Miss Barbara Manke, college union. They will then be divided into Group A and B. Group A will have interviews with the judges at 10:30 a.m. and Group B will be rehearsing. At 1:30 p.m. the process will be reversed. At 3:15 p.m. there will be more rehearsals.

Friday night, Group A will compete in the evening gown and swimsuit competition while Group B will compete in the talent competition. On Saturday evening, the process will be reversed.

PAGEANT PATTERN ... Upon their arrival at the Raulf Hotel, the contestants had to be assigned numbers and have their individual pictures taken with Miss Engh. A shot of the whole group was taken and shots of smaller groups. The girls lined up in three rows for pictures. After standing warily on chairs, the girls in the back row removed their heels.

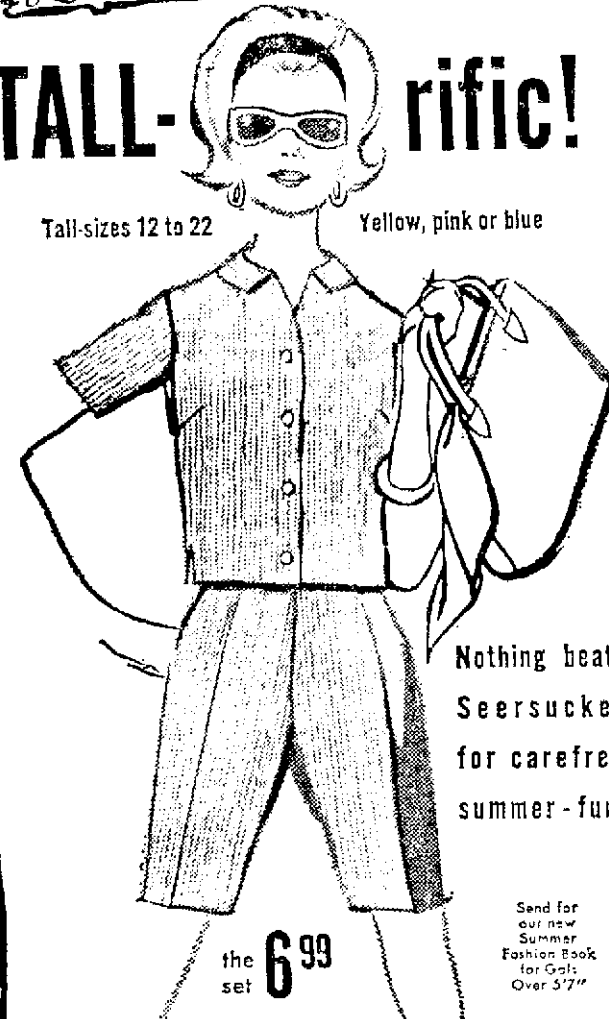

Contestants were interviewed individually by Herb Willis, who will be master of ceremonies for the pageant. ... After managing bright smiles despite the glare of television lights, the girls were informed they would have to repeat the process. Seems one of the TV cameramen was given the wrong time and had arrived after the picture-taking ended. ... Miss North Shore, Miss Barbara Bonville, arrived a little late due to car trouble. ## A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Gossip May Boomerang

It's no idle chatter that kind, generous thoughts bring a soft glow to a woman's face. But, sad to say, that beauty treatment is too often forgotten when we girls get together.

Then how gossip is apt to fly, and faces to lose their lovely light. But let's put aside the beauty hurt in unkind remarks. It is of small import, compared to the deep-down personal hurt.

A woman belittles herself with every belittling comment she makes, however seemingly harmless. Eventually she is stuck with the damaging labels she sticks on her friends.

For, like everyone else, she is judged by the company she keeps. You have to question her appeal if, by her own admission, she surrounds herself with unattractive company. Charmers attract charm, male and female!

No woman is expected to go through life with stardust always in her eyes. But what a lovely sees, thinks and feels should be well-dusted before it passes her lips. In discussing people she surely would avoid the bankrupt phrases, "I heard ..." and "She's nice, but ..."

The instant you hear those words, you know you are in for some distasteful half-truths and untruths. You become a doubting Thomas. Just so, the arrows of so much more important to be gossip and innuendo fail to hit their target. Rather they boomerang on the archer and hit home.

Do you have a hand problem? Send today for "Lovelier Hands," a booklet that covers every step in a quest for hand beauty. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

Broiled Club Steaks

Club steaks are a fine barbecue choice because one steak per person can be broiled to suit each guest's taste for doneness. Some steak lovers insist that salt and pepper are the only seasonings necessary for broiled meat. Others like a variation and enjoy steak brushed with lemon butter or topped with browned mushrooms.

Writer Thinks Hopscotch Becoming Less Popular—But Not Forgotten

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

I do not know if I am imagining it, but it does seem to me that as I walk down city streets today I do not see as many hopscotch diagrams chalked on sidewalks as I did in past years. I do not, of course, view this with alarm because such an old, such a wonderful game surely is not fading out of our children's lives. It simply cannot be.

Hopscotch is a wonderful game that it is played in almost all the countries in the world, and there is ample evidence that it has been played in very early times. I have seen hopscotch diagrams scratched in the pavement in the old Forum at Rome, and it is amply recorded that the children of ancient Rome were playing the game at least 1,845 years ago!

House It generally is believed that the Romans learned the game from the Greeks and then brought it to England. From there it traveled almost around the world.

I know it is played in the Scandinavian countries and that it is forgotten, here is a bare-bones outline:

A diagram is drawn with chalk on a sidewalk or scratched ("scotched") into the ground. Convenient dimensions of the whole would be about five feet for the start (the baseline) and about 10 or 15 feet to the home semicircle ("Heaven" or "Paradise"). A puck (for some reason, we called it a "tor") which can be nothing more elegant than a small stone is tossed into the numbered departments—first into one, then into two, successively up to "Paradise." Then one hops or leaps until the department containing the puck is hopped into. Then, while hopping, one kicks the puck beyond the baseline and returns to the baseline. If you miss you must begin again at "onesies."

Even today, the final step in the game is not usually drawn as a square, but as a rounded device which suggests the dome of Heaven. At any rate, the game is played in China, too, where it is called T'ao lang tze. The Chinese kids—the hopscotching kids the world over — are not allowed to step on a line or a crack of the diagram for the same reason that you and I were not allowed to step on a crack. Remember? "Step on a crack, break your mother's back!"

Variations

There are so many variations to the game of hopscotch that the specific rules need not be discussed here, but for the sake of those who never knew, or have in my neighborhood lug mibe around with them but they seem to know no rules. Today, for their benefit, I discuss one of the many marble games:

This game was called "ringers" when I was a boy, or sometimes "big ring". And various kids had special names for special marbles. "Shooters" sometimes were called "reals", "stoneys", "agates", and sometimes a lucky kid would have a regular "agate cat's eye". The lesser marbles were most often called "glassies" but of course I realize that many of the names used were somewhat local and subject to change.

Mainly, though, a "mib" was what one shot at with a "shooter."

Big Ring: The ring, drawn on the ground, was 10 feet in diameter. Into the center of the ring, each player puts an equal number of marbles — enough to make 12. If there are four players, each player puts three marbles into the ring.

The marbles are placed in a kind of a cross pattern with each marble about three inches apart. The players then take turns shooting at the centered marbles. To find the order of precedence, we invariably "lagged" our shooters toward a line drawn on the ground. The nearest to the line shot first; the next nearest shot second and so on. And we always played "for keeps".

'Knuckle Down'

The players must "knuckle down" just outside the big ring. This means that at least one knuckle must touch the ground and remain touching the ground until his shooter has left his hand. And he must not "hunch" — push his hand out to propel the shooter.

His object is to knock one or more marbles out of the ring. If he hits one so that it goes out far enough to touch the line, it is his. If the player's shooter remains in the ring after one or more marbles have been knocked out, the player shoots from that point. But if his shooter goes out of the ring, he must shoot from the outside of the circle again. (He may move around the ring for a better, closer shot at a marble displaced by his first shot). He, ma'am, is taking "roundsies".

If, on this shot, his shooter does not hit any marbles out of the circle, the next player has a turn. Number one, though, picks up his

Tax Rulebook Reported Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tax rulebook is ready for those who figure check grabbing is just good business.

The new rules regarding business tax deductions affect only 10 per cent of the taxpayers and are expected to produce the relatively small sum of $100 million in extra revenue.

The final instalment of the rules, the second of two major sections, was issued Monday by the Internal Revenue Service. It had issued new record-keeping regulations in December.

In general terms, the new rules require evidence of a reasonable item on the tax form and business activity. Also, there is a ban on "lavish or extravagant" entertainment.

Nickel Beer, Plus 35 Cent Meal—Remember?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A downtown Pittsburgh cafe observed its 30th anniversary Tuesday by cutting back some prices to what they were 30 years ago.

You could get a turkey dinner with potatoes, vegetable, pie and coffee for 35 cents. Beer was a nickel.

The owners said about 1,500 diners, or approximately a half ton of turkey, were served.

shooter and holds it until it is again his turn, and so do the others.

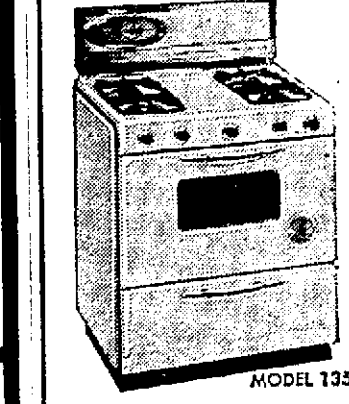

Some of us played that when the seventh marble was knocked out, that was the end of that section of the game (provided the shooter went out at the time the seventh marble was knocked out). Then each player adds an equal number of marbles back to the ring and the game begins again, until the seventh marble is knocked out.

Marbles gave me and many generations of boys a great deal of exciting fun. More fun, I think, than watching Mighty Mouse on television.

Foods for Picnics Are Abundant

Picnicking's a pleasure when the weather's fair and there's plenty of good food to eat.

Whatever the weather, you can count on an assortment and abundance of fine foods for indoor or outdoor eating throughout July, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture reports.

The plentiful foods list for July includes turkey, fresh peaches, watermelon, summer vegetables, peanut butter and dairy products, peanut butter and vegetable fats and oils.

Summer vegetables, such as lettuce, tomatoes, corn, beans, and beets, will be filling produce bins with more variety than shops have seen in months. Among fruits, peaches, and watermelons are picnic-time stars which will be in abundant supply.

Lots of milk and dairy products, such as ice cream and cheese will be on hand for picnic plans or indoor meals.

Wise shoppers should find peaches, the longer the stain remains, the darker the effect. Then tag—the peanut crop again is expected to be greater than what is consumed.

Vegetable fats and oils, which perform a multitude of baking and other cooking jobs for busy homemakers, also are in plentiful supply.

American Girl To Marry Prince Njaka

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 20-year-old stenographer at a nearby aviation plant will become a princess Saturday when she weds Nigerian Prince Otuokere Paddy Njaka, 22.

The prince, a student at Loyola University, will remain here until he finishes his education in electrical engineering in 1965. Then he and his Negro bride, Linda Faye Lee, will move to Nigeria. The prince's father, Chief Maduneme G. Njaka, is ruler of 50,000 tribesmen in Kwakwa, eastern Nigeria.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was 12 years old when my parents explained to me that my real mother had died when I was an infant and that my mother was actually my step-mother. This came as a surprise but not a shock.

My step-mother is a sensitive woman so I have never brought up the subject since and neither has she.

My own children are now 10 and 11 years of age and I have never told them. Young children sometimes say the wrong thing and I'd feel terrible if they embarrassed their grandmother in any way.

We do not live in the same city and the children see their grandmother infrequently. Do you think they should be told? Or is it best to leave sleeping dogs lie?—Undecided

Dear Undecided: There are no dogs around—just facts. And I see no reason why the children should not be told. They will probably show surprisingly little interest in the subject since they themselves are not involved. You'll wonder why you made such a big deal of it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FAMILY COMPLICATION

Dear Louise: I am 24 and live alone. My parents died a few years ago. I am to be married in September. My only relative is my late mother's sister. She does have a husband with whom I had a serious falling out some time ago and we don't speak. I certainly don't want him to escort me, nor do I want his name to appear on the invitation. Would it be proper that my aunt does the inviting or may the invitations be worded so that not even her name appears? Example: The honor of your presence is requested at the wedding of Miss. Louise Davis Answers

Because of the unfriendly situation between you and your uncle, I advise you to issue the invitations as you suggested in your example. Omitting your Uncle's name would be blatantly telling the world that you and he are at swords points. It is better to leave family difficulties and hard feelings out of the picture. Under the circumstances, you are old enough to issue the invitations yourself.

Former Marine Sergeant Still Fighting to Clear Good Name Spoiled Over a Decade Ago

BY JAMES MCCARTNEY

WASHINGTON — On a rainy day 11 years ago Carl M. Buck pulled his new 1951 yellow Studebaker up to a spotlight in the tiny town of Solana Beach, Calif.

As he told the story here today to his astonishment he was arrested a few moments later by the California Highway Patrol.

He was held for investigation. It turned out in connection with a larceny earlier — 22 miles away.

Buck, master sergeant in the Marine Corps with an unblemished record of 18 years service, says he thought little of the incident at the time.

It would be only a while before his innocence would be established he thought, and he would he free. It was only an unhappy coincidence, easily rectified, he believed, that his yellow car and his Marine uniform matched the description of an unknown man sought in connection with the larceny.

Buck could hardly have been more wrong.

For now, 11 years later, he is still fighting to establish his innocence and to clear his name.

He has been offered a presidential pardon through the Justice Department.

But he turned it down because it failed to state his innocence flatly.

He has also won many converts to the justice of his cause — including Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Sen. Henry Jackson and Warren Magnuson, both Democrats from Washington, now his home state.

Bureaucratic Errors

Sen. Douglas, a leader in the fight to exonerate Buck, believes it is a classic case of mistaken identity — coupled with an incredible series of bureaucratic errors the military is reluctant to admit.

But Buck's battle has been at a virtual standstill for more than five years and is still apparently far from over.

At first it didn't look too bad. He was held for 72 hours without charge, but then released and sent about his business. To Buck the incident was over.

Soon afterward he was promoted to warrant officer and the world was bright.

But suddenly, four months later, he was rearrested and called to face trial on the larceny charge. Then everything seemed to go wrong.

The trouble lay in the confused circumstances surrounding the larceny.

Buck was chief baker at the San Diego Marine Recruit depot.

The larceny had been from a clothing warehouse at Camp Pendleton several miles away.

Only "Chuck"

Two days earlier a man identified only as "Chuck" had approached a supply sergeant at Camp Pendleton and offered him $50, or some money and whiskey, if he would help steal $400 worth of sergeant's and corporal's chevrons from the warehouse.

The sergeant reported the offer to his superiors and a trap was set for "Chuck."

"Chuck" showed up at the appointed time, the chevrons were given to him and he loaded them in a car — a 1951 yellow Studebaker.

At this point the CID sergeant was supposed to make the arrest. But the transcript at Buck's trial showed that he blew his assignment. His car was parked heading the wrong way — and "Chuck" got away.

The CID sergeant gave chase, but soon stopped at a telephone and asked that an alarm be broadcast for a Marine in a 1951 yellow Studebaker.

Buck was stopped, 22 miles away, only minutes later — in a driving rain.

Weird Events

When Buck was brought to court martial, the CID sergeant who had blown his assignment was the chief witness against him, but there were also a host of weird circumstances.

At one point Buck's own lawyer took the witness stand to testify against him.

Two men on the scene at the warehouse — one the CID sergeant — "identified" Buck as the thief. Another man there said it wasn't Buck. The two men who "identified" him, however, gave sharply different descriptions of what he looked like.

In a court martial that lasted only seven minutes from beginning to end, Buck was found guilty and sentenced to 18 months at hard labor and a "bad conduct" discharge.

A complex series of reviews of the court martial followed.

One board of review expressed doubt that a larceny had been committed at all, and reversed the conviction.

The highest court, however, the Court of Military Appeals, finally let the conviction stand. Sen. Douglas says that this body never had complete information about the case.

No Accurate Record

One of the courts that heard the case has never been furnished a complete and accurate record of what happened, according to Sen. Douglas.

Buck, however, who is now 50 years old, served a total of 7½ months in military prisons before he was discharged.

Through lengthy negotiations his "bad conduct" discharge has been revoked and he has been furnished an honorable discharge.

But he has lost his pension and his rights to full veteran's medical care.

He has also lost his good name. And he has spent thousands of dollars, and countless hours, fighting to try to regain it.

He had a flicker of hope in February of this year when the White House agreed that a special panel should be set up to review the case and make recommendations.

But apparently this agreement was never fully understood by the appropriate officials in the Justice Department.

Sen. Douglas, and other senators, are now attempting to get assurance from the White House that the original agreement will be followed.

If so, they think Buck may yet stand a chance of vindication.

Laird Questions Conventional War Plans of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., says the wisdom of attempting to develop a capability to wage a successful conventional war in Europe is open to question.

During House debate on the 1964 defense appropriation bill, Laird said the Army is planning to add, probably next year, two more divisions — presumably to permit waging a conventional war in Europe.

Laird, a member of the House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, said the conventional military advantages held by the Soviets in that area "argue quite persuasively that we would be foolish to abandon our successful nuclear strategy for a very doubtful conventional strategy."

"If we are going to supply the manpower for a conventional war in Europe," Laird said, "perhaps we should abandon our military assistance programs."

Two 'Teeth' on Lawrence Campus Being Extracted During Summer

Old Gymnasium, Observatory Hold Many Memories for Generations of Graduates

BY MARGUERITE SCHUMANN

The face of Lawrence College there — and cherish the memory of the days their coiffures froze stiff trudging back from swimming class across the old John Street bridge.

Loses Windows

Throughout the winter the gymnasium were an increasingly dejected countenance. Someone nailed a "condemned" sign on the door (an inaccurate and unnecessary indignity), and during snow-hall season, the gym mysteriously lost its windows.

Both buildings — the 62-year-old gymnasium and the 71-year-old observatory — were marked for destruction several years ago when the dream of a second science building was conceived. Last July the dream became concrete when a gift of $1 million came from Casper E. Youngchild, Appleton, the largest sum received from an individual in the 116-year history of the college.

Blue Beetle Bus

In preparation for razing, the campus gym was abandoned last September, and women's physical education joined the men across the river at the newer Alexander Gymnasium. (Both the old and the new gyms bore the name Alexander, in honor of their principal donor L. M. Alexander, one-time president of Nekosia-Edwards Paper Co. With the appearance of the second in 1929, the most common names were the "big" gym and "little" gym.

And such is the decadence of the mid-20th century that Lawrence men and women now ride to their exercise in a groaning blue beetle of a bus.

Those who went to Lawrence in a starchier day remember that er House, and to the campus directory as Lawrence House. As the Air Force settled into Victoriana, one man was heard to grumble, "We're moving from Underwood Hall to Underwood House."

It is obvious that they feel the dignity of the corps has been impaired momentarily.

The destruction of Underwood Observatory will lessen the college's remembrance of two names that stand large in the institution's past.

The name of L. Wesley Underwood will be obliterated completely. The name of the Hon. Philatus Sawyer, congressman and lumber baron of Oshkosh, continues in an endowed chair in physics, but the telescope that was his gift will be mothballed for the moment.

Ironically, the elimination of the Underwood name is just what the board of trustees ordered in 1895.

The popular professor of astronomy, who single-handedly raised the $10,000 needed to erect the building and who was acting president in 1893-94, had fallen out of favor for some malefaction never revealed in the college records.

The trustees, in a pout, ordered his name to be chiseled from the building, but it was never done.

Underwood Observatory and the campus gym hold their share of memories for past generations of Lawrentians.

Other Uses

The gym, where muscles were joyously flexed for so many years, had many other uses.

It housed many campus dances where boy met girl, who later married and lived happily ever after; it served as Lawrence's first arena-style theater; it held all the science labs when Stephen Hall of Science was being remodeled (a grandly common and odorous Tower of Babel); it has been a station for the blood bank; it was used as a final-examination hall; it held the AFOTC (rows of blue uniforms and ceremonial trappings); and it contained the transmitter for the campus radio station WLFM.

The observatory — where a variety of science and mathematics courses were taught in days prior to AFOTC — has been host to hundreds of Boy Scouts and Cubs who have come to view the stars.

Look at AAL

"Whenever the stars aren't out, we look at the sign on the Lutheran Aid Building. The boys like that just as well," says the amiable Southern gentleman who has

Among the Objects found in the cornerstone of Underwood Observatory when it was opened during the building razing on the Lawrence College campus were ten coins ranging in date from 1856 to 1890, which had been placed there by Louis C. Smith, an Appleton monument cutter and coin collector who set the cornerstone. Smith's daughters, Miss Olga, left and Miss Hazel inspect the box, with the wreckage of the building in the background. The coins will be placed in the cornerstone of Youngchild Hall of Science, which will be built on the spot. Miss Olga Smith is associate professor of biology at Lawrence.

The same gentleman was involved in a not-at-all amiable competition with the lady next door. The issue: who could attract the most campus cardinals to their respective window-sill feeding stations.

The lady next door was an opponent worthy of anybody's mettle. Her name is Mrs. Nathan Marsh Pusey. She now feeds the birds at Harvard.

Minding Your Business

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

WHY OTHERS DON'T USE OUR 'PRICELESS' LEADS

DEAR CY:

We can give lessons (a graduate course) in doing business the hard way. Our household work saving product is superior; but we have worn ourselves to the nub trying to secure retail distribution. It has been very slow, with only two of us working at it part time, and when sales are made we net only pennies. The only way out seems to be selling our completely packaged product to some live wire organization or make a royalty agreement. They could push it widely for success. You, who are in contact with so many, could give us names of companies who would like to take something like we have and make profits on it. You are our only hope.

GATES AND CANTRELL

DEAR G. AND C.:

The longer a man is in business, the more he realizes every company has its own peculiar specifications for products it markets. That's why so many giving "priceless" leads to others in good spirit feel hurt when their suggestions are not acted upon. They don't realize their own inadequacy in diagnosing corporate desires. I believe in thinking of my friends' and readers' businesses and going to the mat to deliver leads, but suggest you enter this phase of your venture the easy way. Check with your chamber of commerce and obtain a list of companies who may be interested in making a deal. Pursue them by telephone, initially. In the final analysis, you will dredge up the best prospects through want ads. Through spending a few dollars and very little time, you can get those who are interested to open their mouths or raise their hands.

DEAR CY:

Just how does the Canadian government help a person find a business or job in Canada? Are individuals welcome, or are Canadians interested only in big corporations locating there?

AMBROSE A.

DEAR AMBROSE:

Canada has a communications system for enticing immigrants, which our government should have to alleviate our employment distribution problems.

Every three months, the Canadian Immigration Service issues its "Occupational Assessment and Distribution Guide." This lofty christened tome is loaded with gilt edge data. It lists 535 occupations and the job opportunities in them within 25 different areas. Also catalogued are 116 private enterprise opportunities. Available to immigrants only. This guide pin-points what areas need workers and businesses by type. For additional information, the Canadian Immigration Service contacts its field men who investigate and report. One man, wanting to open an equipment repair shop north of the border, got 26 factual replies from representatives in Canada detailing what areas in Canada needed him and his business and why. Numerous readers have asked me if Canada is seeking companies only, as reported by a major business journal. No! Canada is seeking men, women, and children, proprietors, partnerships, and corporations.

Ron Perranoski, Jim Gilliam Lead Dodger Victory

Los Angeles Remains Half-Game Off Pace as Cardinals Top Giants

BY BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Junior Gilliam is a 34-year-old infielder who is sometimes called old. Ron Perranoski is a relief pitcher who is sometimes called busy.

The Cincinnati Reds, however, are more likely to call them other things.

And with good cause. Gilliam has beaten them with run-scoring eighth inning doubles for two nights in a row and Perranoski has finished two of the last three games, all of which Cincinnati has lost.

Between them, Gilliam and Perranoski provided the key for the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 triumph over the Reds Wednesday night,

Each AFL Team To Have an Investigator

League Also Names Committee to Look Into Equalization

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The American Football League says each of its eight teams will have a private investigator starting this season.

The measure apparently was a reaction to betting scandals that rocked the rival National Football League this year and brought the suspension of Green Bay's Paul Hornung and Alex Karras of Detroit.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss said Wednesday that the teams would complete hiring of investigators or investigative groups by the start of training next month.

Up to now, Foss has been responsible for security matters. The commissioner said he was still empowered to start an investigation. Moreover, said Foss, reports by club investigators would go to the league office.

Security in the NFL is handled by one investigator for all of the older pro league's 14 teams.

Not Public

Foss said the names of investigators hired by AFL teams would not be made public.

The league also discussed ways to bolster its two weak franchises, New York and Oakland.

A committee was named to prepare a concrete proposal for a vote today.

Earlier this year, club owners started an equalization draft whereby New York and Oakland could buy draftees, free agents and veterans not frozen by the other six teams.

New York, which could have picked up to 18 players, took two, Oakland, with a choice of 12, picked one. Officials of the two teams said they made few selections because they could buy players cheaper once the other six teams cut out their rosters.

Best Crowd Of Season Sees Game

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

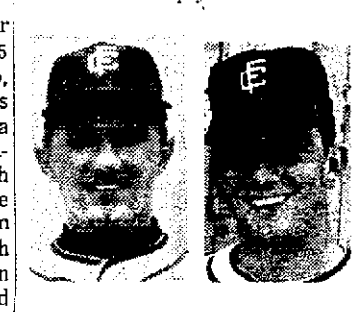

Bob Lewandowski, who is staging one of the biggest hitting comebacks in professional baseball, continued his prodigious swatting Wednesday night at Goodland Field in key the Fox Cities Foxes' 4-2 victory over Decatur.

The largest (1,671) and most spirited crowd of the home season watched Lewandowski's blazing bat account for the Foxes' first 1963 home run at Goodland Field as well as a tie-breaking 2-run double in the eighth inning.

In the last three games — all of which have been won by the Foxes — the Buffalo, N. Y., third baseman has blasted six hits (including three homers and two doubles) in 13 tries and has driven in eight runs.

Patience Rewarded

Lewandowski's season-long halting in general, and his recent surge in particular, has been most unexpected in view of his anemic .194 average with the Foxes last season. The Baltimore organization, and its Fox Cities affiliate, have been amply rewarded for their patience with Lewandowski. He has raised his average 80 points (to .274) and has already batted in more runs (27) than he did all of last season (23) and has one more homer (four) than he hit all of '62.

Lewandowski's batting heroics overshadowed — but not by much — the expert, 4 - hit pitching by Delano Hill. A relatively new Foxes pitcher, Hill weathered some early trouble before settling down to blank the Commodores on two hits in the last six innings for his third win in five decisions.

The loser of the exciting "Little League Booster Night" game, played in 2 hours, 5 minutes, was Bob Musante. He had a 4-hitter going until the Foxes rampaged in the eighth.

The victory was a key one in the Foxes' bid to finish the first-half of the Midwest League season in the first division. Only three games remain in the first round, including tonight's series-concluding battle.

Braves Leave on 21-Tilt Road Trip After 7-2 Defeat

Colts Break Loose in 13th As Good Home Stand Closes

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves took off on a 21-game road trip, their longest of the year, after a fine home stand which boosted them back to a respectable .500 mark in the National League race.

The Braves finished a stay at friendly County Stadium with a 10-5 record Wednesday night as relief pitching failed and hitters didn't come through in the clutch during a 7-2 loss in 13 innings to the Houston Colts.

The Colts, smarting from six shutouts in seven previous games, broke loose for 16 hits in the series finale before a crowd of 7,729. The Braves finally wilted in the hot and humid weather as Houston scored five runs in the 13th off Bob Hendley and Claude Raymond.

The Braves scored in the first inning on singles by Frank Bolling, Eddie Mathews and Joe Torre. A walk loaded the bases with two out, but Gene Oliver, who failed to get the ball out of the infield in five official trips to the plate, grounded into a forceout to end the inning.

Spangler Homers

Al Spangler, a former Brave, tied the count in the sixth when he lined a pitch from Bob Shaw into the bleachers in right for his first homer of the year.

Milwaukee moved in front 2-1 in the seventh on a two-out single by Bolling, a balk by Houston starter Bob Bruce and a single by Hank Aaron. Then the Colts tied the game once again and drove out Shaw in the eighth.

Three singles, the last by Carl Warwick, brought Hendley from the bullpen. Hendley sailed along, hurling one-hit ball, until Warwick led off the 13th with a single.

A sacrifice, an intentional walk, a single by Bob Lillis and a single by Ernie Fazio, plus an error by left fielder by Lee Maye, were good for two runs and Raymond relieved Hendley.

A walk, a double by Johnny Temple and a wild pitch accounted for three more runs before Raymond ended the inning.

Appleton LL All-Stars Win No-Hit Game

Appleton scored three times in the second inning and twice in the fifth. Steve Fustfeld connected for two of the winners' six hits — both singles. Gary Grotenhuis hit a run-scoring double.

Boros, Palmer Bid for New Earnings Mark

CLEVELAND (AP)—U.S. Open winner Julius Boros and Arnold Palmer, who says he's about over the "two-day virus" that struck him last week, can top the Professional Golf Association's record money winnings for a single year by winning the $100,000 Cleveland Open starting Thursday.

Neither kept an exact score in practice rounds Tuesday over the Beechmont Country Club course. The $22,000 first-place money here would put both Boros and Palmer over the current record, $81,448, set by Palmer last year.

Palmer leads the field this year with $63,545. Boros is second with $59,680.

Jack Nicklaus, who has won $58,890 this year, also played the 6,610-yard, par 71 course Tuesday but didn't announce his score.

Sam Snead snipped three strokes off par for the front nine with a 32.

Chuck McKinley, Ashe Meet in 3rd Round of Wimbledon Tourney

5 American Men, 7 Women Left in Championships

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Chuck McKinley, the United States' top hope of taking the Wimbledon tennis championship, runs into a confident determined countryman in third round play today.

"Let him come," said 19-year-old Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., the first American Negro man ever to play in the historic championships.

"If I play well, I'm capable of beating anybody," Ashe said.

"I want to have a try at McKinley. If I lose, well, I'm supposed to lose. But if I beat Chuck and don't get a place on the Davis Cup squad, I'll be mighty disappointed."

Ashe and McKinley were among five American men who survived second round play Wednesday, but dark horse hope Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Calif., fell before veteran Ramanathan Krishnan of India.

Twice in Semis Krishnan, twice a Wimbledon semifinalist and long-time Davis Cup star, beat the 20-year-old unseeded Ralston 6-3, 3-6, 12-10.

McKinley, top-ranked in the United States and the only seeded American at Wimbledon, continued to show sometimes brilliant, sometimes indifferent play. McKinley, seeded fourth, whipped past Alan Lane of Australia 7-5, 6-4, 8-6.

Ashe showed a wide variety of shots in a 3 1/2 hour, rain-interrupted 5-7, 7-5, 11-9, 3-6, 6-3 triumph over John Hillebrand of Australia.

"If I have to lose, I want it to be to an American," Ashe said in looking ahead to his match with McKinley. "But I don't aim to lose. I came over here to win this title."

As for McKinley, the St. Louis native who now lives in San Antonio, said "I'm here to win, but you've got to remember the general standard of competition is much higher now than it was in the days of the Budeges, the Tildens and the Kramers. I'm not saying they weren't great players. They were, but they could go three or four rounds without much danger of being knocked out. Nowadays every match can be a tough one."

Tom Edliessen, Berkeley, Calif.; Jack Frost, Monterey, Calif.; and Frank Froehling, Coral Gables, Fla., were the other U.S. men safely into the third round. Herbie Flam, Palm Springs, Calif., and Adrian Bely of Rhodesia were tied after four sets and each had eight games in the fifth set when darkness halted their second round marathon Wednesday.

Rafael Osuna, Mexican Davis Cup star who attends Southern California, ousted 17-year-old Stanley Matthews Jr., son of England's 48-year-old soccer star.

The only seeded players eliminated were Pierre Darmon of France, No. 6, who lost to Bob Howe of Australia 3-6, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3, and Ken Fletcher of Australia, No. 3, who lost to countryman Fred Stolle 7-5, 9-7, 13-15, 6-0.

between the Foxes and Decatur at Goodland Field.

Decatur Threatens

Decatur made a large threat to tie the game in the ninth. Roy Reetz walked, but Bob Marshall struck out. Bob Wardle cracked a double to right center, putting the lying markers in scoring position with only one out.

Hill met the challenge head-on, striking out pinch-hitter Jim Heyden and inducing troublesome Berto Fuentes to fly out to left field.

It was Fuentes who set the stage for both Decatur runs with his speed on the bases. In the first inning, he was hit by a pitch, stole second and scored on Rod Bode's single to center. The same pair collaborated in the third, as Fuentes walked, stole second and counted on Bode's hit to right field.

Lewandowski received a hoist-erous ovation when he ended the Foxes' home run drought in their own ball park. Up until last night, the Foxes had hit 17 homers in foreign parks but none at spacious Goodland Field in 23 games.

In the fourth inning, Lewandowski blasted a pitch far over the left field wall—marking the third straight game in which he has homered.

The Foxes tied the count in the fifth inning after two were out. Jim Vadis beat out an infield hit. Hill, who had gone 0-for-10 previously as a Fox Cities batter, drove a double into the right field corner, scoring Vadis from first.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Daryl Lamonica of Notre Dame believes he is ready to be a leader and possibly bust Wisconsin's Ron VanderKelen as starting quarterback for the East in Saturday's All-America football game.

"I think I can begin to lead now," Lamonica said after practice Tuesday. "You can't be a leader unless you are totally doing."

Milt Bruhn, Wisconsin's coach who is directing the East team, praised Lamonica.

"He's an excellent drop-back passer, very smart and a quick learner," Bruhn said. "He wants to know everything you can teach him."

VanderKelen passed Wisconsin to the Big Ten title last fall and nearly upset Southern California in the Rose Bowl.

minette of the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf Association. They will be known at Wisconsin as Marue A. Carroll scholars, in honor of the former president of NEWGA.

Timm is one of 11 winners announced by the Wisconsin State Golf Association and its caddie scholarship committee chairman, Edward P. (Ned) Allis of Milwaukee.

All four scholarships are awarded in cooperation with the national program initiated in 1930 by Chick Evans, famed amateur golf star, and under which approximately 1,500 scholarships have been awarded.

The WSGA has awarded 116 scholarships since it joined the program in 1947. NEWGA has awarded 15 since it came in two years ago.

Munson and Saur qualified for their scholarships by caddying at the Oshkosh Country club, Timm caddied at the North Shore Golf club, and Van Domelen at Butte des Morts Country club.

The members of those clubs are among 5,000 golfers in Wisconsin and 45,000 nationwide who support the Evans program.

Each scholarship covers full tuition and housing and is renewable for four years. Its value is about $3,000.

To qualify, each boy had to caddie for at least two years at a WSGA or NEWGA member club, must have been graduated in the upper 25 per cent of his high school class and required financial aid to attend college.

Munson and Saur are graduates of Oshkosh high school. Timm got his diploma from Kimberly High School. Van Domelen is a 1962 graduate of Xavier High School. All four will reside in the Evans Scholars chapter house in Madison while attending the UW.

Playing Want Ad Game

Can be Fun for Group

BY CAPPY DICK

The game of "Want Ad" can be a riot of laughs. Here's how to play it:

Give each player a pencil and a slip of paper six or seven inches long and three inches wide. Tell them they are going to write some want ads and that at the very top of his slip each player must print an adjective (Figure 1). Letting no one see what he has printed, he must fold the paper final step is for each player to print what the reward will be to the finder of the object.

At this point the laughs begin because each slip is to be read aloud by the player who received it in the final passing. As he reads, he must supply certain words to complete the "want ad." These words are printed in capital letters below. Using the portions shown in Figures 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, the completed "want ad," when read aloud, will state:

Read Ad

"LOST — gorgeous onion on Billygoat St. near the moon. It was lost while eating chili with chop sticks. IF FOUND turn it over to the Smithsonian Institution. REWARD: 25 hugs at corner of Main and Jackson."

Supply the same capitalized words when reading each "want ad."

Man Waits for Sunny Day to Kill Himself

GUATEMALA (AP) — Jose Lucas Carney waited for a sunny day to leap 150 feet to his death from the Belice bridge outside the Guatemalan capital Tuesday.

Carney, an unemployed handyman, left this note: "This accident was to take place June 22 at 5 p.m. But it was raining, so I postponed it until today. Good-bye, friends."

over and pass it to the player to his right, at the same time receiving a slip from the player to his left.

When the papers have been passed this way, each player is to print the name of an object (Figure 2). Again, the papers are to be folded to hide what has been printed and are passed to the right.

Next Instruction

Your next instruction is for the players to print the place where the object was lost (Figure 3). Again, the papers are folded and passed to the right.

Now tell each player to print what he was doing at the time the object was lost (Figure 4). This done, the papers are again folded and passed to the right. Next, each player is to print what to do with the object when it has been found (Figure 5). Again, the slips are folded and passed. The

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

WE DON'T LEARN; WE'RE TAUGHT!

TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

False. In some instances a child merely recites what he has memorized from a poetry book or a catechism. But this alone is not true learning. Real learning is an active matter. The child must put together what he has learned in ways that have meaning for him. A parrot can be taught to say words. A tape recorder can repeat an entire lecture. But only human beings can communicate what they have learned.

Should young girls go with older men?

Yes— No—

No, not unless they want to get involved. Research studies show that the girls who marry young tend to marry older fellows rather than boys their own age. When a young girl goes with an older man, she is exposed to his more mature ideas of what a date is for, what constitutes a good time, and what the date should lead to. Since he is the older, and therefore the more sure of himself, it is his will rather than hers that determines their dating behavior. When his intentions are completely honorable, his goal is marriage for which she may or may not be as ready. The hazard is premature involvement for the girl.

The entire question of dating and all its hazards is examined with graphic frankness in the booklet, "What Teen-agers Should Know About Life and Love." Send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope in this column, in care of the Post-Crescent, (Copyright, 1963)

Girl Cosmonaut May be Visitor In East Berlin

Nikita May Use Gimmick to Offset Visit by Kennedy

BERLIN (AP)—There is speculation that Premier Khrushchev may bring Soviet spacewoman Valentina Tereshkova to East Berlin Friday in an attempt to offset President Kennedy's triumphant visit to West Berlin.

Observers said the Soviet leader will have to do something spectacular to whip up enthusiasm among the East Berliners.

There has been speculation that Khrushchev might reveal a new Soviet policy on German problems. But the general feeling is that he is too busy disputing with the Red Chinese to take on the West for a new period of acute tension.

There is little chance, however, that even the 26-year-old spacewoman could bring out the crowds or arouse the enthusiasm that greeted Kennedy in West Berlin Wednesday.

No Comparison

Gerhard Goetting, an East German Communist party official, said during a round-table discussion with East Berlin newsmen that "The visits of Khrushchev and Kennedy cannot be compared. Khrushchev, said Goetting, was coming to support East Germany's policy of peace as well as to honor East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht, who will be 70 Sunday.

Kennedy did nothing but "aid the West German militarists who want to start another war." He never said a single word in West Berlin about the necessity of keeping peace in the world," Goetting said.

Khrushchev is scheduled to land at Schoenefeld Airport, on the outskirts of the city's Soviet sector, and drive in a motorcade to the East Berlin city hall, the East German news agency ADN reported.

Showdown Expected on Kentucky Governor's Anti-Bias Directive

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A legal show down loomed today on Gov. Bert Combs' executive order directing the end of segregation in all state-licensed businesses and professions.

Jack M. Lowery Jr., attorney for the Louisville Tavern Keepers Association, said the order is unconstitutional.

"No provision I know of authorizes a governor to regulate the affairs of private citizens by proclamation," he said.

Civil rights leaders generally hailed the order.

The governor's office, which sought advice from the U.S. attorney general before drawing up the order, said it is valid and enforceable.

Hope Dims, Tax Fight Goes Into Fourth Day

Both Parties Unhappy With 'Compromise'

Debate Highlighted By Lawmakers' Grimaces, Grumbles

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The legislature will probably patch up a tax bill during the next week, but nobody can now predict with any confidence what it will contain when it is submitted to the inspection of Gov. John W. Reynolds.

Lawmakers are laboring over the so-called "compromise" budget and tax bill offered ten days ago by the Democratic executive with grimaces and grumbling of the kind indulged by children swallowing a distasteful dose of medicine.

They don't like what they are doing — on either side of the partisan aisle — but they also know that if they balk too much they may bring about another defiant veto from the Democratic governor who refused a month ago to sign another revenue bill put through by the Republican legislative majority.

It is now reasonably certain that the Senate can scrape up enough Republican and Democratic votes to approve a rough approximation of the compromise measure drawn up by the governor.

But the reaction of the assembly is highly uncertain.

Most of the Republican leaders of the house are saying that they have not committed themselves. Democrats are saying that they cannot promise a majority of their votes unless they are

Vatican Council To Reconvene in Late September

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has formally ordered the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council to reconvene Sept. 29, the Vatican announced today.

An announcement by the Vatican's special council press office disclosed the date and said the text of the order will be sent to Roman Catholic bishops around the world.

More than 2,500 are expected to come to Rome for the assembly, the biggest gathering of Roman Catholic prelates in history. The council was first called by Pope John XXIII to promote the cause of Christian unity.

The council convened last Oct. 11. Pope John recessed it on Dec. 8 until Sept. 8, but it was automatically suspended by Pope John's death.

Pope Paul, 24 hours after his election, announced in his first message to the world that he would continue the council.

'Be Happy, Go Rocky' Or 'AUH2O'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The campaign gadgetmen have come to town to show politicians how to win in '64 with such sure-fire items as shopping bags emblazoned with "Be Happy — Go Rocky." Indian headaddresses and even pickled oysters.

Only congressmen and "practicing politicians" are invited to the showing of the specially advertising guild, a strictly nonpartisan outfit. And a walk through the 100-plus exhibits stirs thoughts of campaigns past as well as future.

But the apparent frontrunner among new novelties at the pre-1964 campaign showing are shiny metal emblems, ranging in size from lapel tabs to wall hangings, bearing the lettering "AU H2O." Any bright schoolboy can tell you that is chemistry language for Goldwater.

"Turncoat" Pen

The exhibitors are quick to explain that any of their wares can be used by any party or candidate. One salesman proudly shows his "turncoat" ball point pen and the little metal elephant and donkey symbols that can be clipped on or off in seconds as the occasion demands.

Yo-yo toys, pencils and plaques are available with "vote for," "support" and other exhortations, leaving only the name or the party to be filled in.

A Pocahontas-style head piece, with a real feather, sells for a nickel, for quantity orders. The party name can be changed, but this one says: "Little Indian now—big Republican later."

"Don't eat me," warns the label on a transparent plastic bottle containing a pickled oyster. The label also guarantees the oyster will contain "one cultured pearl or more." This costs a dollar or two.

Kennedy Assailed by Singer on Civil Rights

TORONTO (AP)—Negro singer Harry Belafonte assailed President Kennedy Wednesday for what he called a bankrupt policy on integration.

"As president and moral leader, Kennedy has been terribly bankrupt in administering the type of force he should have been administering from the very beginning," Belafonte told a lunch-crowd held to raise money for a fund in the name of the Rev. Martin Luther King.

DUBLIN (AP)—President Kennedy put aside world problems today to make a sentimental pilgrimage to the Irish hamlet where his great-grandfather was born.

The President clipped three days from his crowded European itinerary to visit Irish cities and towns. He reserved an hour for a helicopter hop to Dunganstown, which Patrick Kennedy left 120 years ago to seek his fortune in the United States.

Dunganstown consists of a couple of farmhouses, a country lane and a few pastures. The ancestral home, a tin-roofed hut, is a storage shed on the farm of widow Mary Ryan, the President's third cousin.

Kennedy Homestead

The hut, last visited by Kennedy when he was a congressman in 1947, bears a sign identifying it as the Kennedy homestead. For Kennedy, the barnyard has been covered with concrete, a manure pile has been removed from a nearby field and the farm animals are gone.

Mrs. Ryan did not seem flustered by the President's visit. She prepared a pot of tea and tangy soda bread for "Cousin Jack."

Kennedy received a ringing welcome from about a quarter of a million jubilant Irishmen Wednesday. Dubliners waved banners reading "Welcome Home, John Kennedy," as the presidential motorcade drove to the residence of U.S. Ambassador Matthew McCloskey.

Set in Trees

American flags flew on buildings all over the Irish capital. Many signs greeted the President as "Sean"—the Irish version of John, pronounced Shawn.

Spectators leaned from windows along O'Connell street, Dublin's main thoroughfare. They clung to Lord Nelson's pillar and perched in the trees.

As the Kennedy party drove past the General Post Office—where a famed battle for Irish independence was fought in 1916—ticker tapes and torn paper rained from windows.

Kennedy was greeted at the airport by President Eamon de Valera, now 80 and nearly blind, in the Irish tongue.

"I have thought it fitting to speak to you in the language of your ancestors," said de Valera.

Switching to English, he said: "We welcome you as the chief executive and the first citizen of that great republic which is the hope of the world."

"We welcome you for yourself. We are proud of you."

Placing Wreaths
Kennedy's itinerary for today included visits to the towns of New Ross and Wexford about 120 miles west of Dublin, several wreath placing ceremonies, a garden party given by de Valera and a dinner and reception at the residence of Prime Minister Sean Lemass.

Kennedy winds up his tour with a visit to Italy next week. Observers in Rome think it likely he will invite Pope Paul VI to visit the United States.

There has been mounting speculation that the new pontiff will be the first Pope in modern times to travel outside Italy.

Budget Has Been Cut by $4 Million

MADISON (AP) — A compromise budget and tax proposal, short of $4 million of its revenue potential and threatened with the loss of more, hung on for the fourth day of debate in the Wisconsin Senate today.

Republican and Democratic leaders alike still held hope for passage of the measure. But both sides feared additional changes might do irreparable damage to the bill's original balance between $634 million in state spending for 1963-64 and new taxes needed to cover the record outlay.

While debate continued on amendments taken from a pile that totaled 43 before adjournment Wednesday, the prospect of completing the legislative process by Monday was lessening.

Biennium Ends

The state's current biennium ends Sunday night, and to install a new level of services an enacted budget would have to be ready Monday.

The biggest money amendment passed Wednesday took from the proposal $1.3 million that would have been collected through a three per cent sales tax on intra-state telephone tolls.

On the other side of the ledger, $570,000 was taken from budget appropriations with adoption of an amendment to eliminate state-supported educational television.

A proposed additional boost in income tax rates was rejected in a 22-11 vote. The compromise already calls for a two-fifth of one per cent increase in income tax rates and an amendment by Sen. Martin Schreiber, D-Milwaukee, would have added one-tenth of one per cent to make the total increase one-half of one per cent.

Millions Involved

The Milwaukee senator's amendment would have used the additional income tax money to replace sales taxes which he wanted removed from water and home fuel bills. About $10.5 million.

Three Incidents Investigated

U. S. Reacts With Little Excitement, Some Curiosity to Sex, Spy Scandals

BY STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A trio of sex and spy scandals in Europe and the United Nations seems to have aroused some curiosity but little excitement in official Washington.

The FBI won't say anything officially, but U.S. agents obviously are investigating the Profumo affair, the Swedish spy scandal and an alleged call girl racket at the United Nations. But no official, either in the Kennedy administration or in Congress, is contending that the succession of scandals has wrenched the security of the United States.

"You don't hear it talked about much in Congress," said Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

Tower, one of the few congressmen to comment, had this to say about the Profumo affair in England:

"I think the concern on the U.S. security side is relatively mild. But, Tower added: "My big concern is what this will do to the Tory government."

Tower said the latest scandal—the arrest of Swedish Air Force Col. Stig Erik Wennerstrom as a Soviet spy—broke too recently to see how it affects the security of the United States, but "I would be more concerned about the Swedish affair than the British affair."

At the State Department, all officials were meeting requests for comment with a stiff "no comment."

Wennerstrom, arrested in Stockholm, was accused of turning over military data on Sweden and other countries. The Swedes did not name the other countries, but they presumably included the United States.

Wennerstrom was Sweden's air attache in Washington from 1932 to 1957. This job gave him access to secrets involved in Sweden's purchase of the U.S. Army Hawk missile system in 1960.

Wirtz Reveals New Racial Standards For Federal Jobs

Nondiscrimination Policy for Construction Industry Tighter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said today the government soon will issue new standards to make sure there is no discrimination in employment on federal projects.

The government's nondiscrimination policy in the construction industry will be tightened, he said, to make sure before a contract is awarded that contractors can comply — not after work on the contract begins.

The forum for Wirtz' announcement was a meeting of a House judiciary subcommittee where he testified in support of President Kennedy's civil rights package.

Of the quest for improving the lot of the American Negro, Wirtz said in his prepared testimony: "There has been no more important issue before the country and the Congress—save only the issue of war and peace."

Follows Kennedy

Wirtz followed Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who urged passage of the program Wednesday. Republican members made clear that the GOP price tag for helping the Democratic administration get the bill through Congress is a strong hand in writing the legislation.

They showed the administration can count on GOP support only if it is willing to compromise on its sweeping seven-point program.

In advance of Wirtz' testimony, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., made known that he intends to offer an amendment to deny National Labor Relations Board and other benefits to unions which practice discrimination.

"I am not at all surprised that provision of this sort was left out of Kennedy's civil rights package," the Arizona Republican said in an interview. "I don't record," Goldwater said in an interview.

Launching the administration civil rights bill on its troublesome course through Congress was a five-hour job for the attorney general, who was subjected

83 Years Old Today

No Special Fuss on Helen Keller's Birthday

BY FRED GOLDEN

EASTON, Conn. (AP)—After a bustling life, Helen Keller has decided to relax a little. So there won't be any special fuss today—her 83rd birthday.

But there was no rest for the mailman as he bore his heavy burden to Miss Keller's sprawling old house, Arcan Ridge.

Greetings to the blind and deaf author come from the humble and the great. There also were bouquets of roses, Miss Keller's favorite flower.

Activity Limited

In recent years, Miss Keller has limited her activity but she continues as a consultant to the American Foundation for the Blind.

"Miss Keller is happy, alert and content," says Mrs. Evelyn Seide, her secretary and companion. "But she now wants to enjoy some of the quiet that has been denied her over the years."

With Miss Keller today were her brother, Phillip Brooks Keller of Dallas, Tex., and her sister, Mrs. Mildred Tyson of Montgomery, Ala.

Some neighbors stopped at the door of the country house, but they left quickly after offering good wishes.

Miss Keller was especially pleased by a letter from Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama, her native state. He told her the Senate recently gave overwhelming approval to legislation providing assistance for training teachers of children who are deaf, blind or otherwise handicapped.

Miss Keller hopes to catch up with some of the reading she has been too busy to do.

She likes to soak up the sun on a terrace overlooking her garden. Her pet dogs give her some merry moments.

Farmer, 75, Burns to Death Under Tractor

Weyauwega Man
Pinned as Machine
Rolls, Catches Fire

WEYAUWEGA — A 75-year-old Weyauwega farmer was burned to death about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday when he was pinned under his tractor which tipped over and caught fire.

Dead is Edward Haffner, route 2, Weyauwega.

Dr. Sam Salan, county coroner, who pronounced Haffner dead at the accident scene, said Haffner was pinned under the tractor by a leg or a foot.

Undersheriff William Mork and county police captain Royal Myhill said Haffner was operating a tractor with an attached mower in a hay field on his home farm. The tractor hit a large boulder in the field, tipped over and caught fire. Flaming gasoline spilled on Haffner's legs, Undersheriff Mork said.

Herman Buchholz, a neighbor, who was helping Haffner with the haying until about 20 minutes before the accident, was the first to arrive at the fire. He said Haffner appeared dead when he arrived. He said he saw the fire and drove his car to the field.

On Back Field

The accident took place in a gully on one of the back fields on the farm.

Buchholz said Haffner stuck the tractor he was operating on another boulder in the field earlier Wednesday afternoon. Another tractor was used to pull Haffner's tractor off the boulder.

Haffner was driving the tractor down a hill toward the east when it struck the boulder.

Haffner is survived by his wife and one brother.

Following the installation, Louis Krueckenberg, talked on the national Rotary convention held in St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Krueckenberg represented the Clintonville club.

Celebrate Independence Day

Denmark Natives at Home Feated at Special Danish Party

WAUPACA — Ten residents at the Bethany Home at Shadow Lake, who were born in Denmark, were guests of honor Wednesday afternoon at a special Danish party, a belated celebration of the Denmark Independence Day observed June 5.

"Danish Day" at Bethany was almost a day-long activity under the direction of Miss Alma Schlenker, matron. Little dolls dressed in homemade embroidered dresses and jackets and prominently displaying the Danish flag added to the decorations in the lobby.

A table contained many Danish souvenirs, including replicas of embroidered place mats, dolls, Christmas dishes, silverware and a silver coffee service.

Home for Children

Bethany, according to the Rev. R. M. Paulsen, executive director, was originally founded as a home for children by the Danish Evangelical Lutheran church. It was organized in Albert Lee, Minn., in 1895, and moved to Waupaca in October, 1896.

The original site on which the home is located cost $1,500 and the building, sufficient to house 40 children, cost $2,400, a total investment of $3,900. The property, including the original building, was recently valued at $80,000, excluding the new $750,000 home for the aged.

The buildings are located on 30 acres of Shadow Lake-front property.

Tells History

The Rev. Mr. Paulsen, who told the history of the home during the special program at 3 p.m. Wednesday, said Mrs. Ane Petersen, Waupaca, was the first superintendent of the children's home. She served 13 years and left in 1903.

It continued as a children's home until 1954 when the original building was occupied by 22 elderly people. The Rev. Mr.

Calumet Town Okays Zoning Plan

For County-Regulated Land Use

CHILTON — The Town of Charlestown has become the third recent month. At the first session, Orrin Meyer, secretary of the County Park Commission, which also serves as the county zoning board, outlined the advantages of regulated land use to town residents.

Town Clerk Harold Woelfel filed an ordinance adopted by the town board with Roland Miller, county clerk and zoning administrator. The ordinance declared the township to be a zoned area governed by all the regulations of the county plan.

The move climaxed a series of special elector and board meetings called by the town board in the past two months. After the informational meeting, a committee comprised of Carl Peik, Alfons Reiser, Linus Woelfel, Harold Woelfel and Elmer Kolbe conducted a study of zoning and its potential relationship to the township. Committee findings were reviewed at a meeting three weeks ago.

Residents in

CHILTON — Approximately 10 per cent of Calumet County's 22,215 residents are receiving some form of aid through the social security program. Cyril Rosenberger, a social security department worker, told Chilton Kiwanians at their meeting Tuesday evening.

Rosenberger, a 13-year veteran with the department, currently working out of the Sheboygan office, said more than 2,000 Calumet persons are receiving benefits.

The featured speaker also explained disability benefits and those available to persons who are self-employed. Rosenberger outlined the types of employment which qualify for the program and listed eligibility requirements.

Kiwanis directors, at a board meeting after the regular business session, voted to contribute $50 to outfit two baseball umpires working games in the Chilton Recreation Department leagues.

The money will be used to buy chest protectors, face masks and other paraphernalia needed by umpires working behind the plate.

Umpires are now calling balls and strikes from behind the pitcher's mound, which has not been satisfactory. Two complete sets of equipment are needed because two games are in progress at the Paul Bowen, Hayward, Calif., and same time in the playground leagues.

Democrats Set Recruit Plan

Eighth District Hopes to Double Its Membership

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Mrs. Harry Cassie Danen, DePere, and Milton McDougal, Oconto Falls, were announced today by Robert McCormick, Eighth District Democratic chairman, as co-chairmen of a "crash program" to double party membership in the district in the next 60 days.

McCormick said the membership drive would include a contest for signing up the most members with prizes totaling $1,000. The objective is to encourage grass-roots politics by having more people join and work for the Democratic cause, he said.

For purposes of the contest, Eighth District counties were divided into three groups.

Various Groups

Brown, Outagamie, and Manitowish are in one group. Forest, Oconto, and Door are in a second group. Kewaunee, Florence, and Marinette are in a third group.

For each group of counties, a first prize for selling the most party memberships will be an all-expense trip to Madison to visit the capitol and the governor's mansion and two tickets to a University of Wisconsin football game and $100 savings bonds. The person selling the most memberships in a single county will receive a $25 bond, providing at least 100 memberships are sold.

(Second District Outagamie County Vice Chairman Dean Lewis, Kaukauna, today said the Outagamie County unit of the party has made no definite plans to participate in the contest. He said he doubted whether Outagamie County would take an active part.)

Civil War Shells Still Dangerous

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—Two Civil War shells lay among the books for years, fused and ready. Civil War buff Manuel Sempeles discovered a 5-inch navy shell in the basement of Handley Library and a smaller shell upstairs in a storage room. Librarian David Roland remembered how the shells had been tossed around during a recent cleaning and a chance discovery. Two Ft. Belvoir Army specialists came Tuesday, defused the shells and carted them off. Roland made a quick check of the library—no more shells; only books.

1963 Echoes Despair

Wisdom of a People Expressed in Proverbs

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The robust wisdom of a people is expressed in folk sayings—in proverbs and maxims.

"Know thyself," counseled the ancient Greeks, and thereby said it all.

Since then we have become a great deal more verbose.

Through most of human history, folk wisdom has been expressed in direct sayings and forthright advice.

"This said Benjamin Franklin, an American wellspring of this form of knowledge.

"Fenny wise, pound foolish." "If a man could have half his wishes, he would double his troubles."

"He that teaches himself hath a fool for a master."

"Love your neighbor, but don't pull down your hedge."

Value of Money
"If you would know the value of money, try to borrow some."

Many a living room then, floored with samplers that said, "God Bless Our Happy Home."

Simpler times were examined by simpler sayings.

Now we live in a complex and confusing time, and our folk wisdom is expressed in complex sayings with a reverse twist. Our mottoes have become as schizophrenic as our thoughts, and reflect the double talk that has become our normal language.

We communicate by speaking backwards.

Modern Sayings
Go into any office or factory in the land and you'll see on wall

and desk the clouded counsel of our day. I have at hand a small book of these sad witticisms entitled "Signs of Our Times."

Here are a few examples of what the book calls "the choicest, most hilarious contemporary signs ever created."

"If you don't understand it, oppose it!"

"In case of nuclear attack, run like hell!"

"It's better to give than to receive, so what have you brought me?"

"If I weren't so busy, I'd take time off to join in the confusion."

That seems to be the key word in our attitude today—confusion.

Such mixed-up counsels of despair we give each other, and seek thereby a consolation more wry than nihil.

If a people can be judged by their mottoes, then we dwell in a time of hollow laughter that echoes an inner despair.

Sukarno Bans Strikes In 'Vital Industries'

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno's government has outlawed strikes in "key and vital" industries, apparently in an attempt to prevent Communist-dominated labor unions from paralyzing Indonesia's limping economy.

The presidential decree was announced Wednesday.

U.S. Congress Must Work Under Duress

Civil Rights Bills Considered Because Of Riots, Threats

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — A legislative process that operates under duress is unprecedented in the halls of Congress. The Attorney General of the United States, Robert F. Kennedy, in presenting to the House Judiciary Committee his proposals for "civil rights" legislation, made several references to recent street demonstrations in various cities and "the violence which has sometimes accompanied them."

Lawrence

He said these were a direct result of racial discrimination and that the resentments which had arisen due to racial discriminations were "justified."

Nowhere in the statement was it explained why it required the stimulus of "demonstrations" to bring about consideration by Congress of any of the current legislative proposals. The Attorney General in his statement discussed constitutional doctrines and indicated some of the barriers that have hitherto caused hesitation in dealing with these same racial problems. In recommending to Congress now, for instance, the passage of a law that would forbid racial discrimination in restaurants, lunch counters, places of amusement, stores and hotels, Mr. Kennedy states that, because these facilities are open to the public, they are not at all "like a private home or a private club to which the owner invites only the guests he selects." This differentiation has never been sanctioned by the courts as a basis for interfering with the individual rights of the owner of a business.

Kennedy Theory
The theory evolved by the Department of Justice, however, is that, because a business concern deals with the public, it may be subject to complete regulation or possibly extermination by the federal government. This alleged authority is derived from the cause of the constitution which gives Congress the power to regulate interstate commerce, and Mr. Kennedy cited various laws passed by Congress in this field. Not a single one of these statutes, however, covers the selection of customers of a business. They deal with employees, or the practices of the employer in his relations with his own workers, or the practices of business owners in relation to other businesses or in shipping goods to other states or other countries.

Never in the history of the United States has the so-called commerce clause of the constitution been invoked to regulate the customer relationship of a business owner and individual citizens.

The Attorney General conceded that the fourteenth amendment cannot be invoked for equal rights in this category and he correctly referred to the Supreme Court decision of 1883, which specifically held that the federal government could not on its own constitutionally enact legislation in this class of cases because this is a power held by the several states.

Placing reliance, therefore, on the commerce clause of the federal constitution, the head of the Department of Justice, in the course of his statement to the House, said:

"I believe a proprietor might refuse to sell to a disorderly or improperly dressed customer, but no American should be discriminated against because of his color, race or religion."

No Definition
But there is nothing in the court decisions based on the commerce clause of the constitution which denies to any proprietor of a business the right to use his own judgment as to what constitutes a good customer relationship.

The sum and substance of the whole argument seems to be that an owner of a business may always use his own judgment as to whom he may sell his wares but apparently the moment he allows racial discrimination to enter the recesses of his mind, he can be penalized.

What has not been solved is the dilemma of the business owner who finds that lots of white people will not come to his own establishment if he permits Negroes to crowd into his restaurant. He will then have to decide whether he will permit a few and yet be able to hold the bulk of his white customers. But under the terms of the proposed laws, numbers will not count. Any single act of discrimination would classify him as a violator of the law.

who wish to support the proposals by the Attorney General are suggesting that local boarding houses and smaller restaurants might have to be excluded from the proposed law in order to get it passed this year. It is not explained just how Congress itself can discriminate as between different sizes of restaurants when the actual test for the legislation is supposed to be racial discrimination, no matter how or where it occurs. For what has the size of a business to do with the alleged evil involved?

Speed Necessary

The Attorney General in referring to the recent demonstrations said: "The events that have occurred since the President's first message — in Birmingham, in Jackson, in nearby Cambridge, in Philadelphia and in many other cities — make it clear that the attack upon these problems must be accelerated."

But some members of Congress are beginning to ask why it was necessary to be influenced by street demonstrations. Racial problems existed a year ago and two years ago, and the inference now is that only the carefully planned parades and "sit-ins" have brought the administration into action.

Legislating under duress is a new experience for Congress. When the debate really begins, it will become evident that Congress does not relish the idea that the new "civil rights" bills are being considered primarily because coercive demonstrations have occurred or because threats are being circulated that, if Congress doesn't pass the laws, there will be outbreaks of violence.

Play Activity For Handicapped To Start Monday

KAUKAUNA — Special recreation activities for handicapped youngsters will get underway at 1 p.m. Monday at LaFollette Park, according to James Gertz, recreation director.

Parents of handicapped are requested to call the director if they plan to enroll children to permit planning the amount of supervision needed. Gertz indicated, Mary Ball and Mary Schwinn have already been assigned to work with these youngsters and additional help will be provided if needed.

Plans call for the girls to work with small groups of youngsters, about five or six to a group, with emphasis on group play and activities designed to maintain interest. Play for the handicapped will be held three or four days per week, depending on interest. Arrangements will also be made to let this group use pool facilities at special evening hours when no other groups are around to disturb their play. This is the first such effort by the recreation department and changes in activity may be made after a study of abilities and interests of the handicapped, noted the director.

'Savage Sam' Full of Fast Action, Fine Acting

In "Savage Sam," a fast-moving, action-packed story about a blue tick hound dog and a crew of Indian hunters, Walter Disney has created one of his best feature motion pictures.

It's as good as his "Old Yeller," and it's a sequel to the former movie. Both pictures are based on best-selling novels by Texas author Fred Gipson.

"Savage Sam," currently playing at the Viking Theater, is named for the hound dog in the movie. Although important to the story, Sam is but one of the crew of relentless Indian trackers who cross the southern plains in search of a band of kidnapping, horse-stealing Apache renegades.

One man, Brian Keith, and two youngsters, Tom Kirk and Kevin Corcoran, hold the center of attention in this family movie. Keith has a special talent for playing the rugged, earthy cowboy Beck Coates, who is the leader of the revenge-hungry Texans.

Tom Kirk, who has appeared in many features and TV shows for Disney, has his biggest hit picture and television villainy, of them all as the 18-year-old Travis Coates.

It is young Corcoran, however, who emerges a full-fledged star, with his completely believable, at times, electrocution, tumbling, time-billing, portrayal of the burning, falling, collision and suicide.

His specialty—the kind of role that started him on his long profitable career as a bad guy—has been the sniveling menace. But he also does very nicely as the weak, smart aleck and the trigger-happy coward.

Duryea believes he reached some sort of peak during the past television season when he played a phony psychiatrist in an episode of "The 11th Hour," hypnotizing a woman patient so thoroughly that she killed him by clobbering him with a bottle while sobbing, "I love you, I love you."

Duryea has profited by his special brand of sleek menace. Thus he never complains seriously about type-casting, though he occasionally yearns to do some light comedy.

The big buzz in television circles concerns negotiations in progress. It is also known that NBC wants a remount of the Goodson-Todman packaging firm and Arthur Godfrey about hiring the veteran performer as host on a new game show, "Missing Links," to ABC.

Dan Duryea Expert at Death Scenes

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Duryea, during 20 years of motion picture and television villainy, has lost count of the death scenes he has played.

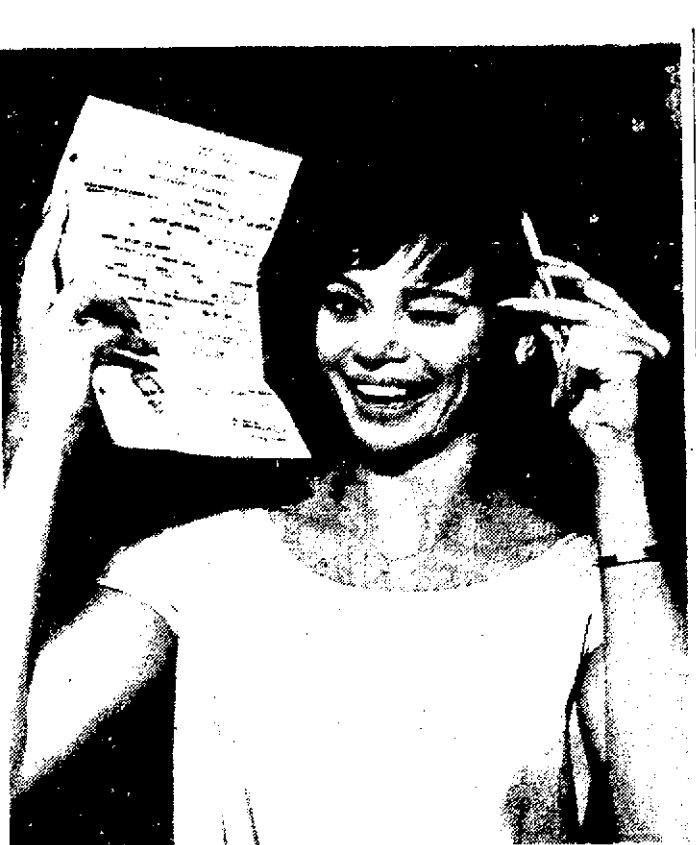

Dan has met the heavy's inevitable fate by shooting, stabbing, electrocution, tumbling, the burning, falling, collision and suicide.

His specialty—the kind of role that started him on his long profitable career as a bad guy—has been the sniveling menace. But he also does very nicely as the weak, smart aleck and the trigger-happy coward.

Actress Juliet Prowse shows her feelings about becoming an American citizen after filling out papers in Hollywood for the immigration and naturalization service declaring her intention. # Whiplash Harms Upper Spine, Neck Muscles

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D. anyone with peptic ulcer? My son Dear Dr. Molner: I suffered has an ulcer. His doctor told him whiplash and back contusions in he could have beer. — Mrs. C. V.

Should I expect any future ill effects? — Mrs. R. K.

The contusions probably are minor skin and muscle injuries.

Whiplash is the result of the rapid forward-and-backward whipping of the head and neck. It isn't a specific injury, but merely implies damage to neck muscles and possibly even the upper spine.

I suspect that the term "whiplash" sometimes is overused. It's a rather vivid, ominous-sounding word.

But if severe damage has been done to the bones, muscles or cartilage, it may take time to correct the condition. Proper treatment may include a special leather collar to hold the bones and muscles in correct position while they heal.

Dear Dr. Molner: The manufacturer of a product for allergies recently stated that if you have more than three or four "colds" a year, you probably have an allergy instead. What is your opinion? I get many colds each year and often have runny nose, drainage in the back of my throat, and occasional sneezes. Would you advise allergy tests? I have taken pills for "allergic rhinitis." That's what my doctor called it. Isn't that the medical term for hay fever? — C. W.

Three or four colds a year is probably about the average number. If you have more than that, either you have more colds, or you have something else — maybe an allergy. I can't quarrel with the statement, but I don't like what it implied — that therefore you should resort to patent medicines.

Yes, I suggest an allergist. If you find that you are allergic to something, staying away from it is the best solution. If you can't do that, you may have success with desensitization injections. Or if the trouble is mild enough, anti-histamine drugs may be adequate. (You would find out, if you investigated, that the product for allergies is an anti-histamine.)

No, allergic rhinitis is not exactly a synonym for hay fever. Hay fever is an allergy to ragweed and similar pollens. It makes the victim sneeze, makes his eyes and nose water. An allergic rhinitis is similar but not the same. It makes the nose run.

Why, you lose! Muscular exertion is required to lower a weight gradually (your own weight in this case) but not nearly as much as is required to raise it.

Men Suffer Some Loss In Hearing at Age 32

BY ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Mr. Ave age Well, why don't you speak up? Male, just past his 32nd birthday, he retorts, not aware yet that people sit down at the breakfast table especially females with high pitched voices will have to talk with his wife as usual. She casual pitched voices will have to talk ly asks if he would like sliced a little louder, from now on to bananas on his cereal. He con him to hear them as well. And studies by a St. Louis en at age 37. psychologist indicate the average male will lose more of his hearing at about age 50 and suffer a third drop in hearing acuity when he reaches the 54-65 age bracket.

Doctor's Study

Dr. John F. Corso, Ph.D., drew his conclusions on hearing loss with advancing age from a study of 912 men and women who had been exposed to a minimum of industrial noise and were presumed to have normal hearing. Writing in the current Archives of Environmental Health published by the American Medical Association, he said a diminution in hearing acuity becomes noticeable in men at age 32 and in women at age 37. Marked changes in the hearing of men he said occur on the average in steps of about 15 years

New Metal Needed For Civil Jetliner

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Aeronautical engineers will have to come up with a new metal with which to cover the frame of the supersonic civilian jetliner proposed by President Kennedy. Richard M. Raring, speaking before the 18th annual convention of the American Society for Testing Materials, said none of the present materials, including aluminum, stainless steel or any of the titanium alloys, will do the job.

posed by President Kennedy, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official said Wednesday.

The greatest hearing losses in men and women in later age groups occur for sounds between 4,000 and 6,000 vibrations a second. These are very high notes. The frequencies on a piano range from 27 vibrations a second for the lowest note to 4,000 for the highest.

Limited Access for County Highways

What used to be U.S. Highway 41 between Kaukauna and the intersection with Highway 10 west of Appleton is now Outagamie County Trunk "OO". The principal reason this stretch of Highway 41 had to be replaced with a completely new freeway was the fact that many business places and homes had located along the right-of-way, and many of them acquired access rights to the highway for driveways and service roads before the state imposed the "limited access" concept on such major thoroughfares.

Direct access to such a highway is a valuable asset to abutting property owners. But as more and more driveways and service roads are built, the highway becomes constantly less effective as a traffic carrier. The fact that this stretch of road had to be completely replaced, at a considerable cost to the taxpayers, is a classic example of the need for limited access laws.

Now that this road is a county highway, however, a new problem arises. Under present law only the state—and Milwaukee County—have the power to limit access to highways. Thus there is a danger that "OO" will become even more congested as property owners demand and receive permission to "tap on" to the highway. If this happens, the chances of "OO" continuing as an even moderately valuable traffic carrier will vanish.

Populous urban counties face this problem with regard to other highways also. Outagamie County, for example, is contemplating building a new highway to link Appleton's College Avenue with State Highway 55 south of Kaukauna. This arterial will cost a lot of money, and obviously is intended to provide rapid traffic movement between Appleton and the eastern part of the Fox Cities metropolitan area. Yet if the county cannot limit access to this new highway it is questionable whether it will be worthwhile building it at all.

Unquestionably it is time the legislature permitted counties other than Milwaukee County to limit access to major county thoroughfares. Also, we are becoming more and more irritated at coming across examples of how our legislators constantly grant special favors to Milwaukee County. When are they going to realize that there are other populous, urbanized counties in the state, with problems similar to those Milwaukee has?

Adoption of the regional plan was debated thoroughly in the township, as it should have been. We congratulate the board in reaching the decision that regional planning will be valuable to the smaller municipalities in this area in the future as well as to the larger ones.

Another Vote for Regional Planning

The Fox Valley regional master plan won another endorsement this week when the Town of Menasha board adopted the plan "as a general guide in making regional policy decisions." This follows favorable action by the cities of Menasha and Neenah.

'Revolution Against Humiliation'

A Buddhist monk in South Viet Nam says his people in that country are fighting a "revolution against humiliation."

The religious and political crisis brought about by the Buddhists recently is adding a new and dangerous dimension to the United States effort to save South Viet Nam from Communism.

In Viet Nam there are some 11,000,000 Buddhists and some 1,500,000 Catholics. But President Ngo Dinh Diem and the ruling family are Catholics and they have used iron-handed tactics in dealing with the Buddhists.

"We don't object to having a Catholic president," the young monk continued. "Or to the fact that his Catholic sister-in-law is the first lady. Or to the fact that her Catholic husband, next to Diem, is the most powerful man in the country. What we do object to is Catholic discrimination and humiliation."

Buddhism is a powerful force in such neighboring countries as Cambodia, Thailand and Burma. But up until now it has not been an important political factor in Viet Nam. The uprising therefore caught Diem's government and American intelligence agencies by surprise.

The major problem the United States faces in trying to save nations like Viet Nam from Communism is to foster a fully effective independent government which can offer the people more than Communism promises. This was a problem in Viet Nam before: now with the Buddhists demanding religious freedom, it is a vastly more complicated problem.

Prince Charlie and the Cherry Brandy

Prince Charlie's illegal contact with a glass of cherry brandy, which he ordered in a British pub contrary to both English law and the regulations of his school, is rather a refreshing bit of news for the jaded headlines of this world in crisis.

The episode indicates that the Prince is as vulnerable to the dares and teasings of his fellow students as almost any other fourteen year old boy. Whatever the punishment meted out to him at his school, it certainly was not as uncomfortable as the conversation between Prince Charles and his parents when the escapade had been admitted.

The Prince has learned several valuable lessons from the little experience. As the future King of England he is almost always in the public eye and must act accordingly. It isn't enough that he is willing to face the music back at the school. More is expected of a Prince. And though a member of the royal family may be something of a gay blade in modern England as throughout British history, he simply must not be caught at any indiscretions.

Expensive Habit

Senator John Williams of Delaware, who sometimes makes his colleagues uncomfortable by his blinding honesty when his efforts to save money affect Congressmen, is waging a battle against the Congressional franking privilege extending to so-called "junk mail."

"Junk mail" as surely every household knows is the stuff that comes addressed to "occupant." It has a nice low mail rate and enables anyone to advertise practically anything with the major costs paid by the United States taxpayer.

Congressmen in favor of being able to send out copies of their speeches from the Congressional Record to every household in the country argue that they should have the same privilege as any other citizen. But, while the "junk mail" rate is low to others, the franking privilege makes it free to Congressmen.

Senator Williams says that postal statistics show that in 1961 Congressional mail sent out free of charge cost the American taxpayers almost $4 million. The addition of the junk mail would add approximately another million, he believes. This may be a pittance to a nation that casually spends billions on various projects. But is there any sense to spending that million?

Congressmen apparently feel that the privilege of reaching every household in the country is an aid in getting across a congressman's opinion, actions and record. But if the congressman is running for office this seems to weigh the scales a little too heavily in favor of the incumbent.

Actually we doubt that much of the unsolicited "junk mail" is read even when a householder is flattered by his congressman's name on the envelope. A million dollars a year seems a high cost for stuff that gets filed most of the time in the nearest wastebasket.

Hooker's Army on Hard March

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for July 2, 1863.

A correspondent of the New York World, speaking of the march of Hooker's army a week ago, said:

"This army in the march of Monday (June 23) suffered untold miseries. The heat was oppressive in the extreme with scarcely a breath of air stirring. The roads were ankle deep in dust, and to cap the climax, all streams and springs along the way were dry.

"Men could not be kept in the ranks. Every piece of woods were filled with them, and no amount of threats or coaxing could prevail on them to move on. The whole country was filled with stragglers.

"The ambulances were crowded with those who had given out completely. I presume there were as many as 1,000 cases of coup de soleil (sunstroke), of which at least a hundred were fatal. The open country was crowded with these fellows, dropping down on the roadsides in all directions.

"But we have reached the end of the hasty march at last, and have had one day's rest with plenty of water with which the whole army has quenched its thirst and in which we all have had a good bath.

"The result is apparent on all sides. Everybody is refreshed and in better spirits. A little moderation of the heat has also contributed to keep the army in better trim, and I think now we are ready to resume active operations."

Pork Production in Wisconsin Can Be a Paying Enterprise

Editor, Post-Crescent:

On the 6th of June the N. E. Swine Testing Association in cooperation with the College of Agriculture, the Dept. of Markets and the Quality Packing House of New London, held their annual meeting at New London.

At this meeting there were some interesting figures shown in regard to the progress the association has been making in the way of developing better quality and more efficient breeding stock for the Wisconsin swine industry.

Aside from the principle object of the testing association it carried another exceptionally effective educational program for Wisconsin hog raisers in that there were figures presented to show that it does not cost any more to produce a meat type hog than a lard type animal of the same weight. Furthermore, those that were there learned, just as important, how much feed it takes to produce a hundred pounds of pork on the average. Fifty years ago we were taught that the thick lard type hog could be produced more economically than the leaner, more desirable meat type animal and it has always been thought by many farmers that pork production in Wisconsin was not a paying enterprise. As a result many of our pigs are shipped out of the state to be fed out for market that could be fed out in the state to a good advantage. The figures presented at this gathering disproved the old established ideas that should have been disproved years ago.

It seems that this was one of the most badly needed and far reaching agriculture programs we have had the opportunity to attend for years; yet when we looked for its publicity in the local papers there was so little to be found. If it were a 4H style show, a beauty contest, or a better way to make paper the readers would know all about it. Knowing of all the time and money that was spent by the swine breeders, the college and the Quality Packing House in presenting this most valuable program, I was surprised that the press did not take a more active part. As we all realize that the press is the most effective tool in the hands of society and without it is much the same as a fellow winking at a girl in the dark. It has been fifty years since the tide turned and the demand for leaner pork has been increasing and the demand for fat salt barrel pork has been going out. Yet in all this time according to estimates of the hog buyers not more than 25 per cent of Wisconsin hogs will grade No. 1. There must be a reason. Farming is no longer our No. 1 industry as it has been. It's still our basic industry and the more our state becomes urbanized, the more our basic industry should be reinforced. Surely, retiring a million and a half acres of our farm land in 13 years and at the same time letting other states, such as Florida and California, reclaim their land and enter our markets does not add to the economy or rank in the states.

When we think of doing something to get Wisconsin moving forward we should turn back our pages of history to 1882 and see what followed during a period when our leadership was under the influence of two agriculture minded Governors Rush and Hoard. Those men had vision and foresight to see that a strong basic industry was essential to a strong state economy and was given first consideration. So we feel that a program like we had the 6th of June could have been given a little more consideration for the good of all.

How 'Local' in Fact Is Local Government In Wisconsin Today?

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — How "local" is the "local" government of Wisconsin in an era when it relies increasingly on handouts of money from Madison and Washington?

The question was presented in the terrified pleas of the localities and their organized lobbies for a solution of the state capital tax and stalemate, which threatened the financial solvency of cities and towns and villages and counties and school districts even more directly than it frightened the office-holders in the state departments and institutions.

One of the difficulties in presenting the state capital financial problem to the public view this year is the fact that it was not a "state" problem in its essence, in the sense that the word "state" implies state services for which state officials are responsible.

When John Reynolds decided to run for governor a year ago and began to prepare himself for campaign discussions, he discovered to his apparent astonishment that eight out of ten of the non-federal public dollars spent in Wisconsin are spent by local governments. He labored the point during his campaign. Many of his audiences were as surprised to hear him relate it as he was to discover it.

HOW IT GOES

There is nothing especially wrong with the fact. Generations of voters have elected generations of politicians who made it so. Obviously the public will be involved.

But it raises the question — is there a "local" government, in the genuine sense. School boards theoretically run the school systems of Belleville and Menasha and Clear Lake. But in point of fact those school systems would collapse if they could not rely upon a steadily increasing flow of money from Madison that the local officials are not responsible for raising.

Thirty years ago there was formed the Wisconsin County

Boards Association, which has become one of the most effective lobbies ever devised, for a variety of reasons, including the diligent work of A. J. Thelen of its Madison office. But the association has not shown a special interest in the improvement of county administration, with all respect to Mr. Thelen and his men. Its principal and perhaps sole purpose is to protect the county budget by insisting upon generous state participation in the costs of the county treasury. Without Thelen and the association, the county government as it is known today would long since have collapsed.

In Madison today the League of Wisconsin Municipalities is one of the most attentive forces on the legislative scene. The League's men, and notably the peripatetic Ed Johnson of its staff, is concerned with the techniques of municipal administration theoretically, but it saves its major energies for the practical business of keeping the tax dollars flowing into city and village treasuries from some other source than the local levies for which the aldermen and mayors are responsible.

RATIO

There was a time when most of the money spent by a city council or a village board or a county board was raised at home — primarily from the property tax.

Today, as a guess, in the state as a whole, four out of ten dollars of the local government expenditure comes from the state treasury—and from the increasingly open-handed federal treasury. It reminds the observer of the argument about the timing of socialism. Does it come with 51 per cent of the economy collectivized? The time is rapidly approaching when local governments will receive more of their sustenance from outside their own taxing efforts, than from their local treasuries. For the moment the great benefactor is Madison. But the signs strongly suggest that Washington will one day replace the state capital.

The brute fact is that only a handful of the localities of Wisconsin could survive today on their own resources. So the question recurs: is there a local government, in the sense of independence and self-reliance?

Vest Pocket Reveals A Man's Personality

Purely Personal Prejudices: Nothing is easier than to be proudly humble, passionately chaste, and dogmatically skeptical; when one pursues a virtue to its extreme, it becomes at last a contradiction in terms.

What is important in history is not so much "what happened," but what people made of it, how they thought about it and used it, for noble or perverted reasons of their own; and any history that is not interlarded with some social psychology is nearly useless for study.

Family structure hasn't changed much in the generations since Chekhov remarked so trenchantly: "When children appear, we justify all our weaknesses, compromises, snobberies, by saying: 'It's for the children's sake.'"

Nothing is more fatal to reform movements than a succeeding: it is the destiny of reform always to be the party of opposition, for as soon it sweeps into power it begins to be overthrown by succumbing to the same vices and defects it so successfully inveighed against.

Barbarous societies punish their satirists by imprisoning, exiling or killing them; but civilized societies, approaching decadence, punish their satirists much more effectively by laughing.

The most dangerous man is not the bad man; it is the one with just enough good in him to appeal to our sense of justice, and just enough evil to appeal to our instinct for revenge.

Once the dancer has leaped higher than ever before, we quickly become discontented with such leaps, and demand that they be ever higher and higher; thus audiences inevitably abhor and blackmail art into acrobatics, trickery, showiness and a competition for setting meaningless records.

To a shrewd observer, what a man displays in the breast pocket of his coat jacket is usually as good an index of his taste and temperament as anything — whether pen and pencils are clipped on, or whether a square handkerchief with monograms is peeping out, or simply a pair of glasses, can tell us volumes about a man's private image of himself.

Some personalities make a lifelong career out of being disappointed in people, which enables them to satisfy two disparate desires at once — to feel superior, and at the same time to rationalize their continual failures in personal relationships.

One of the most ominous signs of disturbance in modern American society is that wives, by and large, are more mature and less content than their husbands; and a social order can flourish only when the men are mature and the women are content.

Demonstrations Won't Help Cause of Negroes

Congress Didn't Heed Jobless Nor Women

Asking Vote When They Marched on Capital

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Would a massive Negro demonstration in Washington this summer persuade Congress — if it showed signs of balking — to past President Kennedy's civil rights program?

Not in a hurry and not this year, if history is an example.

Three times in the past 70 years demonstrators have come to Washington to press for their ideas. Coxe's Army, suffragettes, and the Bonus Army all tried it. Each time it took Congress years to do what the demonstrators wanted.

Last Saturday Kennedy met with Negro and white civil rights leaders. He warned them against undue pressure on Congress. So did Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

But the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and others said that if there is a filibuster by Southern Democrats against a civil rights bill Negroes will have a "non-violent demonstration in Washington." If so, many thousands may be involved.

It took Congress about 40 years to come around to the idea proposed in the 1894 depression by Jacob S. Coxe, a successful businessman of Massillon, Ohio.

He wanted Congress to do something about unemployment and suggested a big road-building program to create jobs. He rallied about 2,000 jobless men from around the country and led this "Coxey's Army" into Washington.

Coxey Arrested
When he marched up to the Capitol on May 1, 1894, he was arrested for holding a meeting without a permit and damaging the grass.

It wasn't until the next great depression—in the 1930s — that Congress got around to creating the kind of make-jobs program Coxe had plugged for.

Next came the suffragettes. As early as the 17th century a few women in this country had called for equal treatment. But it wasn't until the 20th century that the Constitution gave them a national guarantee of the right to vote.

The real agitation by women for equal rights—and eventually the vote—got under way in the middle of the 19th century. As early as 1866 they petitioned Congress for voting rights. States began to listen.

By the time President Wilson moved into the White House in 1913 the suffragettes had gained strength, benefits and sympathy. They wanted a constitutional amendment to consummate a reform which by then had long been under way in the states.

In 1917 they picketed the White House to urge Wilson to get behind an amendment in Congress. They were arrested and jailed and some went on a hunger strike.

Wilson Support
Wilson pushed for them. And on June 4, 1919, Congress approved a constitutional amendment—the 19th—which then went to the states.

Enrollments Rise at State Colleges; So Do New Dorms

About two-thirds of the available dormitory rooms at the nine Wisconsin State Colleges already have been reserved for the term starting in September, according to reports to the central office in Madison. Enrollment is expected to exceed 23,000.

The dormitories will have accommodations for 9,397 students—4,521 men and 5,076 women — when classes start next fall. Reservations were made up to June 15.

Germans Learn Cost Of De Gaulle Visit

BOON, Germany (AP) — West German taxpayers learned Wednesday how much President de Gaulle's visit last September cost them: 412,367.96 marks ($103,091.99).

Financial experts said President Kennedy's visit—four days instead of six—might cost a little less.

states for approval and was adopted Aug. 26, 1920.

The next try—by the Bonus Army—ended in disaster. The army of jobless World War I veterans was run out of Washington in the summer of 1932.

About 18,000 to 20,000 of them came here from all over the country, some with their families. They lived in empty government buildings or built shacks on the outskirts of the city.

These men wanted Congress to vote them a cash bonus. They stayed around for about two months and Congress quit without hearing them.

The government got sick of them. Two of them were shot in a brawl with police who tried to drive them out of a building on government land. Then the city commissioners asked President Hoover to use troops to drive them out.

Four troops of cavalry, four companies of infantry, a mounted machinegun squad and six tanks went to work. They had the help of 300 policemen, and some secret service and treasury men.

The troops burned the hovels of the veterans slept in. The veterans departed. Later, under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Congress voted the veterans a bonus.

Appleton Area Jobs Increase Since March

1.4 Per Cent Rise
In Employment in Two-Month Period

The Appleton labor market area recorded an increase of 1.4 per cent in employment during the last two months, according to a report issued by the Wisconsin Employment Service.

Employment of 13,056 in Outagamie County was reported by the 60 establishments participating in the labor market information program. This compares with the 12,881 reported by the same firms two months ago.

An additional increase of about 1.7 per cent is expected during the next two months, in order to meet further expected seasonal demands.

The increases in employment, however, reflect mostly committed summer hiring, according to the service's report. Any additional demand for summer workers during the next two months is likely to be limited to openings in food processing establishments.

The groups having the greatest increases due to committed labor were headed by machinery, paper, public recreational activities.

Recent Graduates

The present rise in the labor supply is being greatly increased by the recent high school graduates entering the labor market. With the exception of local shortage of skilled machine shop workers, demands can be met from the supply on hand, according to the report.

The net change in employment from March to May, 1963 was an increase of 175. Manufacturers of non-durable goods represented the largest portion of this gain, adding 119 employees during the period. Contract construction firms contributed 91 to the figure.

Among industry groups expecting the greatest increases in employment during the next two months are nondurable goods manufacturers and wholesale and retail traders with 69 and 32, respectively. The net increase is expected to total 220.

Among the firms participating in the Employment Service's survey, the labor force in each industry is as follows:

Manufacturing, nondurable goods, 5,911; durable goods, 2,561; wholesale and retail trade, 1,194; transportation, communication, and power companies, 790; finance, insurance and real estate, 777; government, 671; services, 659; and contract construction, 493.

Britain Will Grant Independence to Kenya

20 New Prints At Library In Appleton

Exhibition Will Be Shown Today
Through July 6

Twenty new framed prints being added to the Appleton Public Library's circulating art collection will be on exhibit today through July 6 and will begin circulating on July 8.

The prints were selected for the library with the help of two Appleton artists—Thomas Dietrich, artist in residence at Lawrence College, and Miss Monica Cooney, elementary art consultant with the Appleton public schools.

The library began circulating its new art collection with 20 prints on Feb. 1. The framed reproductions which can be borrowed for four weeks have proved popular, and the prints are set down back in the library for more than one or two days.

The collection has been financed by a $642 trust fund given the library by an anonymous donor several years ago and another anonymous gift in late 1962 which brought the total up to $800. The first group of pictures cost about $370, and the new group about $430.

The library board relied on the recommendations of the company from which it purchased the prints in selecting the first group. The company based its recommendations on its experience with other libraries.

The board turned to the local artists for advice in selecting the second group of prints.

The 20 new prints include "Stowing the Sail" by Homer, "House on Pamel River" by Hopper, "Bucks County Barn" by Sheeler, "Maize Islands" by Macin, "Central Park" by Grosz, "Five Islands, Maine" by Zorach, "Young Girl at Open Half Door" by Rembrandt, "Salisbury Cathedral" by Constable, "House at Honfleur" by Corot, "Chestnut Trees at Jas de Bouffan" by Cezanne, "Tahitian Mountains" by Gauguin, "The Blue Oak" by Derain, "Synagogue in Jerusalem" by Chagall, "Arabian Houses" by Harbart, "Landscape with ETAO Rubin," "Nickel Plate Road" by Harbart, "Landscape with Bridge" by Segonzac, "Autumn" by Brueghel, "Autumn Oaks" by Inness, "View of Toledo" by El Greco, and "Eglise de Bourgogne" by Utrillo.
